Romulus considers plan for fair share of money

By DALE GOWING
Of The Roman Staff

Romulus city officials apparently don't feel the city gets a fair share of federal grant money each year, and have taken steps to remedy the problem.

The city council last week reacted favorably to a proposal by Mayor Terry L. Troutt to hire a person solely responsible for obtaining as many federal grant dollars as possible.

The employee, who would probably have the title of federal programs coordinator, would concentrate his efforts on bringing to Romulus a share of funds allocated to the states for various recreation, sewer and building programs. Troutt insists the current lack of such a federal programs coordinator causes the city to lose out on thousands of grant dollars annually.

"I DON'T think Romulus is getting anywhere near its proper share of federal grant money," he said. "If you don't know how to apply for its property you won't get your share."

He said John Chihan, city industrial coordinator, presently handles the task of applying for federal money, but is so busy with other duties that he cannot devote enough time to it.

"You have to have someone working on it fulltime who knows all the avenues," Troutt asserted. "Romulus has never had a person delegated for that."

"On Jan. 1, $2.5 million in federal money will become available to cities and if we don't have someone to apply for it we won't get our share," he added.

Troutt continued by saying that Taylor has three such persons assigned to obtain federal dollars, Westland has one, "and the little town of Centerline even has a man."

Councilwoman Joan Lee reported that Taylor's efforts to obtain federal dollars by employing a full-time person have paid off substantially.

The mayor said the city needs more federal assistance to establish more parks, storm drainage and road programs. "We have a mixed community and it is the type that would qualify for much of the money," he continued.

Troutt said the only federal grant money the 4-year-old city has received was $69,000 two years ago, which was channeled into the development of Johnson Park.

THE MAYOR is scheduled to present to the city council tonight a proposed budget for the new employee, which he said would likely be between $30,000 and $35,000 yearly.

The federal programs coordinator, who may start work this month if approved by the council, would continue in the capacity until June, according to Troutt's proposal.

At that time his efforts and results would be reviewed and the city would decide whether to continue the program.

Although the new department would require the expenditure of perhaps $35,000, Troutt insisted that sum would "probably return 200 times that amount" in federal funds to Romulus.

Deer herd roams airport Solution stumps officials

By JEAN CALMEN
The Roman Special Writer

A herd of 30 or more deer is roaming the southern fringes of Detroit Metropolitan Airport while the Wayne County Road Commission continues to search for the best way to get rid of them.

Spokesmen for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the road commission say the most likely solution will be to allow carefully selected group of skilled hunters, probably airport or road commission employees, to hunt the deer.

Louis J Sugo, public relations official for the road commission, said hundreds of hunters have called and offered to help hunt the deer but that it would be unsafe to open the area for public hunting.

"IF WE OPENED it to the public, how could we control it?" he asked. "We will probably have to stay away from hunting for the sport of it."

Moreover, since the deer are on airport property, any hunters would have to meet security requirements.

The deer apparently moved into the area south of the airport, between North Line and Eureka roads, when the airport acquired the property, making it a haven from hunters and other predators. Abandoned farms and orchards helped provide food and cover for the animals.

When the area was fenced about a year ago, the deer were inside the fence.

ALTHOUGH it was known that DNR personnel had counted about 25 deer, it was not considered an immediate problem until two deer were seen near a runway in August.

Airport officials fear that deer could wander onto the runway in the path of planes. Although a large plane might hit a deer in landing without harm to the plane, some officials feel that even one deer could cause damage if a plane were taking off, particularly if the plane was small.

Sugo said both the DNR and the Michigan Humane Society have been consulted in the hope of finding a way to fence the deer out or move them to another location. However, each alternative has been ruled out after consideration.

Tranquilizing guns are considered impractical because they require a range of less than 100 feet for accuracy. Drugged food was ruled out because of the probability of overdosing and the difficulty of trying to save the deer by administering an antidote.

EVEN IF otherwise acceptable, these solutions would still leave the problem of finding a place to move the deer, as would the suggestion to have people drive the deer into a confined area.

One wildlife expert suggested that, although deer could easily jump an 8-foot fence, they would not jump such a fence if it was tilted, and that such fences could be used to keep them off runways.

However, the cost of fencing miles of runways would be great.

In addition, Sugo said this plan might keep the deer off the runway, but it might transfer the problem to another area.

"IF YOU FENCE them out, where do they go but into people's yards and onto the highways?" he said.

"You read stories about deer and automobiles. The deer loses, but so does the automobile," Sugo added.

So far, the deer have stayed close to the wooded areas, but construction of a new runway nearby is causing them to move around more.

If the restricted hunting plan goes into effect, a DNR official said, hunters will probably use shotguns fitted with deer barrels. He said these should not cause any danger to nearby residents.

HE ADDED that destruction of the deer would be done over a period of months and would be closely supervised by the DNR.

Although the DNR has already issued a permit to airport officials to destroy the deer, Sugo said they are still open to suggestions if anyone has a better solution.

Dim city area to be lit soon

Street lights are expected to go up soon along Beverly and Henry Ruff roads in Romulus in the wake of a decision by Wayne County to give the city $10,000.

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners gave its approval last week to a proposal to allocate the money to Romulus in lieu of making the county eligible to be assessed for the street light cost.

The county owns about 400 acres of land in the Beverly-Ruff area and, although the city could not legally make it pay annual assessments on the land, the county was reportedly considering the possibility of giving Romulus permission to assess the land. However, a $10,000 grant was given the city instead.

Two subcommittees of the board of commissioners, the Public Works Committee and Ways and Means Committee, recommended that the board allocate the money.

Without the grant, and had the county refused to allow its land to be assessed for taxes, the lighting would have been too expensive to install, city officials said.

If assessed at the standard rate of 23 cents per foot, the county's 400 acres would annually bring in about $650 to the city, an official estimated. The grant deposited in a bank, however, would earn sufficient interest to net the city considerably more than $650 yearly, he added.

Besides the county's 400 acres and various properties owned by private homeowners in the area, the Beverly-Ruff locale includes about 20 acres of city land and another 20 acres belonging to the Romulus Community School District. The city, school district and other property owners will pay annual assessments on their land.

The Beverly-Ruff area has been tabbed a "dumping ground" because several Detroit murder victims were found there in the last year. The area is remote and unlighted, and serves as an effective cover for would-be criminals.

CIDER TIME

Students view milling process

By MAUREEN RADEMACHER
Of The Roman Staff

It's apple cider time!

An American tradition that goes with autumn as well as falling leaves and football games is that annual trip to the cider mill for apple cider and fresh donuts.

Churning out the tasty liquid this year as every year is the South Huron Orchard in New Boston, owned by Bill Abdon and managed by his son-in-law, Charlie Grover.

THE PROCESS of cider-making at the orchard, located at 38035 S. Huron Rd., two miles south of the City of New Boston, is a modern one utilizing stainless steel facilities. The old water wheels displayed at some mills often are just for show, Grover explained.

"This is a modern cider mill," Abdon added. "Everything you touch is stainless steel. People like something that is clean."

School children from all over the city bus their way to the mill daily for field trips that are conducted by Grover. During the trip through the orchard and mill, he explains how the apples are grown, picked and stored and made into cider.

ACCORDING TO ABDON, who has owned the place for 24 years, it takes at least four or five different kinds of apples mixed together to make the best cider. Cider made from only one kind of apple is not good and becomes insipid quickly, he added.

The different varieties of apples are first loaded into a basin at one end of the cider-making machine as the process begins. These are rinsed with water dripping from a faucet to wet the apples for grinding, then automatically moved up a conveyor to the part of the machine that cuts and grinds them.

The result is apple mush that looks somewhat like lumpy applesauce. This is poured by layers into "cheeses", flat layers of the apple mixture wrapped in nylon cloth. These layers are separated by wooded pieces and stacked up eight to 10 layers high. The pressure of the layers on top of each other squeezes the juice out in a process that takes several hours. The juice that drips out is collected in a basin and piped through screens and strainers to eliminate seeds and skins.

The apple cider is piped right to faucets that can turn on a flow of freshly made cider.

SOUTH HURON Orchards makes cider nearly year-round as they need it. Also sold at the mill is apple bread, made by Abdon himself, and donuts, honey, apples and the things that go with them.

Grover tells the youngsters that visit the place that "apples make girls prettier and boys stronger."

Apple crush

After the apples are loaded into the cider machine, they are cut and ground into a lumpy applesauce ready to be squeezed into cider. Bill Abdon, owner of the South Huron Orchards, fills up the encasement with the apple mush that is poured out through an overhead tube and is on its way to becoming apple cider. — The Romulus Roman Photo.

Automaker eyes court action for bus contract

The AM General Corp. which is headquartered in Wayne, said it will go to court, if necessary, to block a multi-million dollar contract for new buses awarded to the General Motors Corp. The American Motors subsidiary protested the awarding of the contract by the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) to General Motors because GM was not the low bidder in the two categories of the contract.

GM bid $62,340 per bus in one category, while the low bidder was Flexible Division of Rohr Corp. with a price of $59,800 per bus. In the second category, AM General had a low bid of $66,868 per unit, while GM came in at $67,605.

Ross Childs, general manager of SEMTA, said the organization did not think the difference in bids on the 183 buses it wants was sufficient to split the bids.

Chrysler Corp. has taken a new tack on recycling by putting scrap automotive interior trim material in the trunks of its 1975 compact cars.

But it won't look like trash. The material is shredded and impregnated with resin and used as new trunk mats.

In the past, the material was hauled to the dump. Ford Motor Co. laid off more than 1,000 workers indefinitely and another 12,000 temporarily in an effort to combat rising costs.

The company blamed the furloughs on slumping new car sales.

Small car assembly plants at Dearborn and Metuchen, N.J., and San Jose, Calif., will suspend production for one week to help combat the declining sales.

More than 4,950 Michigan men, all working at Dearborn, will be affected.

Another 250 hourly employees at the Rawsonville parts plant also will be laid off.

The layoffs came shortly after the company announced that its July-September earnings were down $47 million from last year.

Chrysler Corp. and General Motors Corp. reported economic woes last week as their profits plunged.

GM reported that its third-quarter earnings were $16 million, down from $267 million in 1973.

Chrysler reported an $8 million loss.

GM is cutting 6,000 employees next month and Chrysler laid off 620 workers and may consider shutting down one of its six assembly plants, a move which will idle another 6,000 workers.

Parade draws night stalkers

There were witches, goblins, ghosts and just about every other imaginable character stalking about the Elwell Road Elementary School in Belleville on Halloween night.

School officials said this doesn't occur each and every day. The school's policy is to check out all visitors coming into the school building.

However, this was a special day and these creatures actually had been invited. It was the day for Elwell School's Halloween parade.

Thanks to the fine efforts of Marcia Farquharson, second grade teacher, the parade was termed a success. Teachers, parents and especially students were eager to participate in the festivities.

The parents lined the front of the school at 2:15 p.m. when the grand marshal, Mrs. Farquharson, gave the signal. First came the kindergartners in their usual exuberant manner. Then, just as it was planned, one by one the grades added themselves to the end of the parade until the sixth grade students joined in.

The parade went around the school and out to the front walk to be viewed by the crowd that had formed earlier.

Associated Newspapers promotes Mrs. McDonald

A member of the editorial staff of Associated Newspapers, Susan McDonald, this week was promoted to the position of news editor.

Mrs. McDonald, 23, replaces Lucy Wiesend in that position. Mrs. Wiesend this summer was named

Editor of The Belleville Enterprise and The Romulus Roman and its affiliated newspapers, The Daily Eagle, The Canton Eagle and The Garden City Eagle.

In announcing the promotion, Mrs. Wiesend said: "The experience and interest Sue is bringing to the job as news editor will help our local news product. She is very interested in the people and activities in the Belleville-Van Buren Township-Romulus area."

Mrs. McDonald a 1972 graduate of Wayne State University, joined Associated Newspapers in December 1973. She served as copy editor and reporter prior to her appointment as news editor.

"Sue has been assuming the responsibilities of news editor for the past few months," Mrs. Wiesend said. "Her responsibilities include helping me to plan and organize the daily gathering of news and the creation of a complete local newspaper."

Before coming to Associated Newspapers, Mrs. McDonald served one year as a member of the editorial staff of the Guide Newspapers of Dearborn.

A former Westland resident, she resides with her husband, William, in Canton Township. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hopp of Westland, Mrs. McDonald is a 1968 graduate of John Glenn High School.

Lake level to fall for winter season

Lake shore residents and other area boaters were again reminded this week that the lowering of Belleville Lake will begin in mid-November.

The lake's water level will be lowered five feet to meet the freezing conditions of winter weather.

Van Buren Township officials said township water department personnel will lower the lake's level by opening the flood gates at Belleville Lake Dam, located at the eastern end of the lake feeding water slowly into the Huron River.

Van Buren Township Supervisor G. Elton Gollwitzer urged lake shore residents and other boaters to remove their watercraft and related equipment for winter storage.

Residents receive sheepskin

Two of the 797 students awarded degrees at Central Michigan University at the end of the summer sessions this year are residents of Western Wayne County.

Dallas A. Lincoln of 48480 Denton, Belleville and Larry W. Jessop of 27502 Pennsylvania, Romulus, were each awarded bachelors degrees in their respective fields of study.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

HAROLD REDISKE, JR. — DIRECTORS

The pages of history, the Bible, and even today's newspapers are filled with all sorts of stories of loyalty. Varied illustrations of famous - and foolish - loyalties are plentiful. Famous loyalty is seen in the Biblical story of Ruth and her mother-in-law Naomi; in the historical story of soldiers in snow at Valley Forge. Foolish and stupid loyalty is seen in stories of Hitler's followers who heard no evil, saw no evil, spoke no evil in their hero worship of their leader.

Loyalty is the very bedrock of every worthwhile human relationship. Our leaders, employers, family and friends expect loyalty, and deserve it - IF - in clear conscience we can link ourselves with them in common purposes of decency and goodness. We do NOT owe them a blanket endorsement of everything they think and everything they do. Shakespeare was right, "This above all, to thine own self be true. And it must follow as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man."

And it is still good advice.

Officials stabilize plan for rubbish collection

By JEAN CALMEN
The Roman Special Writer

Romulus residents can now expect to have their rubbish picked up regularly even if it is not packaged according to contract. But it is costing the city an additional $600 a week.

On the recommendation of Mayor Terry L. Troutt, the Romulus City Council has unanimously approved a 10 cent per unit increase in payment to American Rubbish Disposal, the Plymouth company that collects the city's rubbish. The increase, effective since Nov. 1, means that the company will receive 48 cents per unit instead of the 38 cents specified under the 3-year contract effective since June 1972.

"I AM NOT saying that this guy is a real hot-shot rubbish picker," Troutt said. "But you should see the way people pile the rubbish out there. I think the increase is justified."

Troutt added he hopes the increase will bring about at least a temporary truce between irate residents and the trash collectors.

The company had complained improperly packed rubbish was costing them time and money.

Residents, in turn, complained their trash cans were damaged by collectors.

TROUTT SAID he had someone follow the garbage truck on its rounds. They reported between 800 and 1,000 violations of packaging rules, using "everything from paper bags to cardboard boxes."

When the company refused to pick up inadequately packaged rubbish, city hall received 550 complaints from residents, the Mayor continued.

A letter from American Rubbish Disposal asked for the increase, in return for which the company agreed to continue trying to handle the rubbish on schedule

'I think the increase is justified...'

while hoping that the city would follow through on complaints.

The letter stressed that operating costs, including fuel and equipment, have gone up at least 50 per cent in the last year alone and that the increase would not help them recoup past losses, but was necessary in order for them to continue.

RESPONDING TO complaints about damaged cans, the letter said it has always been company policy to replace such cans when complaints are valid.

Troutt said the city would follow up reports of packaging violations.

"The same people are causing trouble week after week," he maintained. "We are personally going to send somebody to call on those people and tell them to straighten up."

With the increase, Romulus will be paying the contractor about $2,800 a week. The contract runs until June 1, 1975.

ACCORDING TO TROUTT, when a new contract is negotiated the city can expect to pay 70 cents per unit or more because of rising costs to the contractor for performing such a service. The current contract specifies the following requirements for acceptable rubbish:

—It should be at or near the street line or curb.

—It should be in sealed plastic bags or metal or plastic containers not exceeding 30 gallons or 60 pounds.

—ANY BOXES should be of sufficient durability to hold the contents when lifted.

—Branches or cut tree materials should be tied together.

—It can include furniture, appliances or business equipment not exceeding 5½ feet in any dimension or 175 pounds in weight.

—It should not include industrial plant refuse, dead animals, decaying matter, broken concrete or tree stumps.

Of abandoned homes

Troutt calls area 'a cancer'

Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt says the constant abandoning of Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) owned homes in the city's Meadows subdivision is "like a cancer."

"It's a bad situation there now," he added. "There are so many abandoned houses and many are beyond rehabilitation. A family will live in one of them for maybe 18 months and move out. In the process the house gets vandalized and then is abandoned."

"Next, the neighbor decides to move because he dislikes living next to the house. It spreads like a cancer."

TROUTT'S CRITICISMS

of the subdivision, which he said contains about 70 abandoned homes owned either outright by HUD or in the process of becoming HUD property, preceded his stated desire to have private developers purchase the houses, make them livable and resell them. Troutt said developers are doing that in several areas of the county dotted with abandoned HUD homes.

He added that there are 38 homes in Romulus owned outright by HUD. Many more abandoned houses have paperwork pending which will make them HUD property.

The Meadows contains about 400 houses, many of them occupied by low-income families. Troutt said at one time there were as many as 150 abandoned HUD houses there.

Abandoning the houses is prevalent because the residents generally don't own the home to begin with, Troutt added. Most are owned by HUD, which pays the rent for the tenants who qualify under federal guidelines. He indicated that there are over 8,000 such homes in the Detroit metropolitan area. Many of the empty Romulus houses are dilapidated, he said.

"WE'VE HAD GOOD success with making the builder go back through these areas and fix up the houses," Troutt added. "But the city is starting to take action itself to tear the bad ones down."

He said most construction of cheaply-built homes in the city has stopped, primarily due to the tighter enforcement of the city's building codes. Many of the abandoned homes, and some that are presently being lived in, are not up to standards, he added.

Board passes budget

A proposed 1974-75 operating budget calling for expenditures of $7,975,000 has received the unanimous approval of the Romulus Board of Education.

The board adopted the proposed budget at its recent meeting after a public hearing conducted in the school district's administrative offices.

In presenting the 1974-75 operating budget, Romulus School Supt. Robert L. McConeghy told the school board: "This is a balanced budget with estimated revenues and expenditures totaling $7,975,000, an increase of $579,000 over last year's expenditures."

THE SUPERINTENDENT added that the increase is due primarily to salary and wage improvements for all personnel, plus "the added cost for goods and services which everyone is experiencing in today's economy."

The approved budget includes expenditures for all programs carried on in the school district with the exception of federal programs (Title I and Head Start). Revenues include a percentage of the tax levy only and no federal funds are included.

Estimated state aid for the 1974-75 school year was reported in the budget at $2,190,000 which included both state and federal revenues.

Estimated current tax collections, based on a 92.5 per cent collection, was estimated at $5,226,000.

THE SCHOOL district assesses an operation tax levy of 27.65 mills per $1,000 of assessed state equalized property valuation.

The special education tax (one mill per $1,000 of assessed property valuation) assessed by Wayne County Community College will bring the Romulus School District another $130,000 for special education programs, according to the new budget.

The total special education expense for the district was set at $355,000. Total elementary school operating expenses for the 1974-75 school year ending June 1975 is $2,525,000 and total operating expenses for the secondary grades is $2,292,000.

Trash fish make good eating

By WES THORP
Enterprise - Roman Lansing Bureau

'The fish you're eating today — for the most part those which come in from the East Coast — are no better than the suckers and the carp.'

Michigan's trash fish — carp, suckers and bullheads — are the victims of bad public relations, according to Gov. Milliken, who feels these fish could make good, inexpensive eating.

By eating carp and suckers, instead of trout and perch, Milliken feels that the state's large fish-eating population can accomplish two positive things.

They can save money because these fish are cheaper than the more popular sports fish, such as trout, perch and pike.

AND BY eating "carp cakes and sucker sandwiches" the unemployed in the state can be given jobs.

Milliken's idea, which was inspired by fishery experts from Michigan State University (MSU) is to develop an industry in the Upper Peninsula which would be centered around the catching, processing and marketing of non-sport fish, such as carp and suckers.

To discover whether such an industry would be feasible and whether there would be a market for that type of fish product, the federal Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission approved a $100,000 for a 2-year study.

MSU fishery experts would develop a complete program for the establishment of the new commercial fishing venture, according to the study plan.

THE GOVERNOR'S plan calls for the processing plant to be located at the Bay Mills Indian Reservation on Whitefish Bay in the Upper Peninsula, where unemployment is reported as being high and where the Indians are coming under increasing attack from the State Department of Natural Resources for fishing commercially without a license.

While determining the number and location of the trash fish, the fish experts and food processing scientists from MSU will work on developing specific food products from the fish.

For example, the scientists would take carp and experiment with ways to make fish sticks or cakes from the deboned and minced fish. Other possibilities such as carp sausages and canned fish would be explored.

Another phase of the study would include a comprehensive investigation of consumer acceptability of the new fish products; the evaluation of commercial and institutional markets and the establishment of foreign markets.

FOR THOSE who might scoff the idea of eating fish which traditionally have been undesirable, Alex Laggis of the State Department of Commerce said:

"The fish you're eating today — for the most part those which come in from the East Coast — are no better than the suckers and the carp."

Laggis, who is Michigan's full-time representative on the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission, said the ocean trash fish are ground up, made into a mash and then made into fish sticks and other fish products which grace Michigan tables everyday.

Why should the state's consumers pay more for the fish from the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, when they could get them cheaper from Michigan? Laggis asks.

"WE OUGHT to be buying these fish locally especially since the commercial fishermen are being driven out of business by the new regulations," Laggis said.

He was making reference to the new commercial fishing rules adopted by the State Department of Natural Resources which ban commercial fishermen from using large mesh gill nets.

The state is forcing the fishermen using gill nets to convert to a more costly method which requires the construction of new boats and new fishing gear. Many commercial fishermen have said that because of the scarcity of materials the new rules will, in essence, force them out of business.

Along with helping these fishermen, approximately 40 to 50 Bay Mills Indians would be employed once the processing plant was put in operation, Laggis said.

FOR CONSTRUCTION of the processing plant, the state is seeking an $800,000 grant from the federal Economic Development Administration. MSU also has agreed to contribute $32,000 to the first phases of the project.

According to Laggis' concept of the new fishing industry, trash fish from waters throughout the state could be shipped to the U.P. for processing.

This would include the fish from both the inland and Great Lakes.

Optimistic about the prospects for the project, Laggis said one of the biggest hurdles will be "to sell people on the idea of eating fishsticks made out of suckers and carp."

Once that is done, he added: "We will have transformed trash fish from being one hell of a problem to an economic asset."

As we see it

Congratulations deserved

Congratulations are due Van Buren Township on two accounts. The township is one of only two communities in Western Wayne County to host the Michigan lottery superdrawing; and township officials held ribbon cutting ceremonies for the opening of the addition to the township hall.

Although it looked as though the superdrawing schedule had been filled many months ago, township officials - particularly Van Buren Township Clerk Patricia Cullen - were persistent in their efforts to gain a lottery drawing for the township.

What made the drawing particularly significant was the it was the 100th drawing and many local residents were able to see in person the event they had been hearing about month after month. In fact, it was a standing room only crowd for the drawing held Oct. 24.

Van Buren township officials outdid themselves in planning the lottery drawing and the ribbon cutting ceremonies.

Many past township officials and long-time residents were invited to participate in the event. It was quite thoughtful of the officials to invite such people as Richard Waddell, Robert Robson, David McMulan and Donna Bell Renton to speak.

It's one and the same

Economy: prospers or fails as unit

By ARCH BOOTH
President, U.S. Chamber of Commerce

The newsletter reads: "There's hefty opposition in Congress to anything helpful to business without helping plain people."

It's a reputable newsletter and I have no doubt the report is correct. But it started me wondering, as such reports usually do. How did we fall into this trap of assuming that whatever helps business hurts "plain people," and vice versa?

It's almost as though we were talking about two entirely separate worlds, rather than one and the same economy, which prospers or fails as a unit.

What, after all, is business?

It's the store you own, or the company that pays your salary, or the stocks and bonds that feed your pension fund and your insurance policies, or the companies and their employees that pay the taxes that pay your salary.

The health of business affects everything. Even the great, non-profit philanthropic foundations are in trouble today because their investments are losing value as the stockmarket sags. That, in turn, hurts the charities and cultural institutions they once supported. Many of the big privately endowed universities are caught in the same pinch.

When business is off, people worry. When the stock market falls, people worry. When workers are laid off, people worry.

You would think, then, that steps to reverse these worrisome declines would be welcome. On the contrary! Just let some businessman or politician hint that something should be done to aid business, and he immediately what helps American business in general is good for the economy, and everyone benefits from a healthy economy.

But the possibilities of taking that remark out of context were too tempting to ignore. So, instead of interpreting the statement correctly, the major news media cooperated with the demagogues to make a laughingstock of the unfortunate man.

Dictators often find it useful to become the target of every demagogue in the land.

Remember when a president of General Motors said: "What's good for General Motors is good for the U.S."

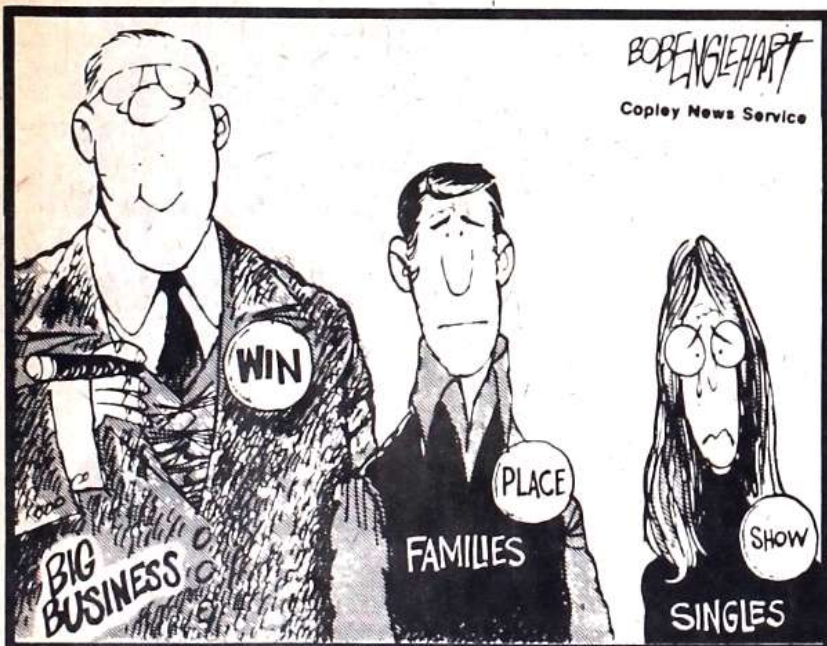

What he meant, of course, is that conjure up a foreign "enemy" to distract the attention of their people from the effects of their own misgovernment. In our society, the fear of "big business" is being used in much the same way by politicians who favor more state control over the economy; that is, less economic freedom for the individual.

Big business is a straw man. Business probably is our weakest social institution, in terms of its ability to influence the political process. Fearing its power is like fearing the power of a bulldozer.

Sure, it's powerful, but the application of the power sharply is restricted to the design function. In the case of business, that function is providing goods and services to the consumer.

If you want to know which way things really are going, don't be distracted by the current profits of Exxon — or any other transitory and isolated bit of data. Instead, take a look at the big picture.

But largely ignored

Speed limit fiasco foreseen

By BOB BERG
Enterprise - Roman Lansing Chief

The state police can only patrol a small portion of the state's highway system at any one time.

There are several people in Lansing who could be standing up and shouting, "I told you so," as they witness the increasing difficulty the state is having enforcing a 55-mile-per-hour speed limit on interstate highways.

They told legislators last winter they were going about reducing the limit the wrong way, but few would listen to them.

Now, Gov. William G. Milliken has asked the legislature to make the law more enforceable by stiffening the penalty. And he has told State Police Director Col. George L. Halverson to step up highway patrols.

THE PROBLEM has several facets. First of all, 55 miles-per-hour is an unnaturally slow speed on interstate highways. They are engineered to carry traffic safely at a higher speed than that.

Now that the price of gasoline has dropped slightly and there have been reports of old fashioned gas wars it's hard for the average driver to seriously consider talk of potential shortages. After all, no gas stations are running out. So the necessity of driving slower to save gasoline isn't so clear.

Secondly, when the legislature passed the new limit, it decided not to impose penalty points for drivers who violated the new limit but stayed within the old limit. If you were willing to pay fines, you could drive 70 forever and never lose your drivers license.

The approach drew cries of protest from the two men charged with enforcing traffic laws - Secretary of State Richard Austin and former State Police Director John Plants. Either give us penalties to use in enforcing the law or don't change it, they said.

BUT THEIR pleas fell on deaf ears of legislators who wanted to have their cake and eat it too - lower the limit to save gasoline and federal highway funds but not add a penalty strong enough to make it enforceable.

Thirdly, there is the fact the state police can only patrol a small portion of the state's highway system at any one time. This has resulted in a belief the law isn't being enforced at all, but figures released by the state police show they have made 115 per cent more arrests on interstate highways since the law was changed than before. But when over half of the thousands of people who drive the interstates every day are violating the limit, there is no way it can be enforced, short of calling up the national guard and putting a guard-man along every mile of road.

When Halverson suggested in August that the speed limit might be raised somewhat, he was the subject of criticism from a wide number of sources. Yet all Halverson said was that the current situation was impossible. It was something his predecessor and Austin has warned would happen.

The rationale for retaining the lowered limit has been that it saved lives as well as gasoline and should be retained even if gasoline was more plentiful. But state police statistics and safety group statistics indicate other factors, mainly the sagging economy, had much more to do with saving lives than the lowered speed limit.

IRONICALLY, at the same time Congress was patting itself on the back for saving lives by keeping a lowered speed limit, it was passing a new law voiding the seat belt interlock, even though seat belts if universally used would save far more lives than those supposedly saved by the lowered speed limit.

Unfortunately, that's what happens too often when politicians, people whose main ability lies in glad-handing constituents, have to make decisions in highly technical areas. Especially when they ignore the experts, and instead make their decision based on political expediency, worrying more about covering their political behind than about figuring out what is really the best, most effective approach.

QUEEN AT WORK — The 1974 Homecoming Queen at Belleville High School is Laurie Nowak, a member of the senior class. She is shown back at her school work after a week of varied student-participating programs that celebrated the high school's recent Homecoming Week. Laurie will reign at upcoming school programs scheduled in the current school year.

2 parks offer winter games

Two Metroparks of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority in the Western Wayne County area will provide recreational activities during the winter months.

Sledding and tobogganing will be available at Lower Huron Metropark's group camp site, with other moderate slopes open in the Belleville area park. Cross-country skiing is also expected to be popular at the site this winter.

Three natural rink surfaces are provided at interconnected ponds in Lower Huron, where skating is permitted daily until 11 p.m. Recorded music, light and wood for rinkside fires are provided. Nearby are heated restrooms. For winter sports conditions, call 697-9181. The park entrance is on Hannan Road one-half mile south of I-94.

The primary winter sports attractions at Willow Metropark near New Boston include cross-country skiing and a hill for sledding and tobogganing at the Chestnut Picnic Area site.

To reach Willow Metropark, travel along Huron River Drive southeast of New Boston to Willow Road. The entrance is along Willow Road between Huron River Drive and Bell Road.

In elementary schools

State officers teach traffic safety

Romulus elementary schools are the recent recipients of Michigan State Police visitations — for safety reasons, that is.

Trooper Robert Brandt of the Ypsilanti Post has been making safety presentations to the city's school children to make them aware of safety measures they should adhere to while walking to and from school.

As part of the Green Pennant Safety Program, Brandt is visiting 44 elementary schools in nearly a dozen cities and townships in Western Wayne and Washtenaw counties, and presenting a green pennant to each school.

The pennant may be flown by the school as long as none of its students are involved in a traffic accident and termed at fault, he said. His safety talk will reach about 19,000 children between now and mid-January.

Each year, if a school has not had any of its students involved in an accident which was their fault, Brandt awards the school a Perfect Safety banner. He is currently presenting the Perfect Safety banner to schools for their clean accident slates of last school year.

Brandt visited Harrison and Beverly schools last week and Tuesday presented Gordonier School with a Perfect Safety banner. He said that of the 44 schools he covers, all but about 10 will likely achieve perfect records this year.

Brandt, who visits two schools per day, will make a tour of Belleville elementaries near the end of the month.

To Head Start

Auxiliary donates tricycles

The Romulus Jaycee Auxiliary, under the leadership of project chairman Ursula VonGlahn, recently donated nine tricycles and two area rugs to the Romulus Head Start program.

Head Start is a pre-school program for 4-year old Romulus youngsters and is presently serving 52 children at the Head Start Center, located at 7335 Washington St. Romulus.

Assisting Mrs. VonGlahn in the project were other members of the auxiliary including: Sapdi Taylor, Libby McNett, Lois Van Stipdonk, Annette Welch and Dorothy Clark. Also helping were auxiliary members Susan Hoffer and Cindy Domas, who were in charge of restoring some of the tricycles.

The Jaycee Auxiliary is a service club open to women in the Romulus community, 18 to 35 years of age.

The auxiliary has assisted in several community projects and has been particularly helpful to the school district's Head Start program and the Eager Beaver organization sponsored by Family and Neighborhood Services.

Accepting the tricycles on behalf of Romulus Head Start was Bill Smith, community school director along with staff members Kathleen Kudra, Leah Silverman and Jeffrey Royal.

Bill seeks tax break for volunteer service

Proposed state legislation which would allow state income tax deductions of up to $2,000 annually to individual citizens who volunteer service in such areas as police and fire protection, hospitals, schools, drug addiction and alcoholism has received the unanimous support of the Belleville City Council.

The proposal, to be introduced by State Rep. Thaddeus Stopczynski (D-Detroit) would recognize the vital need for public service volunteers, would reward those who have given of their time and talent to worthwhile projects and would serve to encourage Michigan citizens to volunteer in fields of vital importance to their communities and mankind, according to supporters.

The resolution approved by the city council in support of the proposal states: "There exists a tremendous resource of potential volunteers among countless citizens who because of job and family commitments, are able to give only a few hours each week, and only at specified times to doing something worthwhile for others."

Trustees adopt state code

The Van Buren Township Board of Trustees has adopted the provisions of the state construction code as the township's building code.

An ordinance to designate an enforcing agency to discharge the responsibilities of the township under the state construction code also was adopted by the trustees at their recent meeting.

The township's building inspector was designated under the new ordinance to enforce the rules and regulations of the state construction code in the township.

The ordinance became effective Oct. 30 with its publication.

A resolution calling for adoption of the building code ordinance was approved on the motion made by Trustee Stephen J. Kuchta who was supported by Township Clerk Patricia Cullin.

UNICEF campaign nets cash

A door-to-door campaign in the Belleville area for funds to assist United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) by area youth netted $210, according to Mrs. Don Priest, campaign official.

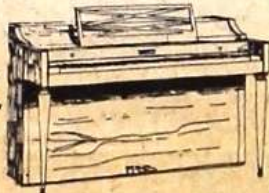

The annual fund drive was conducted under the supervision of the First United Methodist Church of Belleville.

Mrs. Priest said this year's collections were about the same as last year's.

The UNICEF fund drive was held Oct. 27 to Oct. 31.

Over code mandate

State may end up in court

Mounting protest among Michigan cities reportedly being forced to adopt state-mandated building codes which are less stringent than their own is prompting some to take the issue to court.

The City of Romulus has been asked by the City of Warren to join in a lawsuit against the state to protest state building codes which become effective today.

According to critics of the new requirement, including Romulus officials, the codes will loosen many cities' strict building regulations and cause a decline in building quality. In addition, they contend, home rule cities should be able to set their own course of action in terms of building rules.

The controversy began brewing several months ago when Michigan municipalities learned they would have to adopt, by Nov. 6, one of five state and

Jaycees screen films for Romulus children

The Romulus Jaycees, Romulus Recreation Department and several local school organizations are sponsoring children's movies each Saturday afternoon in the Romulus High School Auditorium.

The movies, for fifth grade children and younger who must be accompanied by an adult, run each Saturday at 1 p.m. until Dec. 7, (except Nov. 23). Admission is 35 cents per child, or if in a group, five for $1. Tickets will be sold at the door only.

'Killer' sought in area

State Police are still seeking leads to the identity of the killer of a 42-year-old Romulus woman, found last Wednesday in a rural area of Huron Township.

The fully-clothed body of Mary Weaver was found by three hunters in a field three miles west of Flat Rock near Romine Road. She was bound hand and foot and had a gag tied over her mouth. The Wayne County medical examiner said she apparently suffocated from the gag.

The examiner said the woman had been dead for at least a few days and may have been killed shortly after her disappearance six days earlier.

State police said the victim was last seen about midnight Friday when she left a Southgate bar with an unknown man. The police said they have not been able to identify the man or establish a motive for the killing.

Industry is topic of meet

The initiation of an industrial development study for an industrial district in Van Buren Township will be one of several matters discussed at the Nov. 19 session of Van Buren Township's Community Development Committee.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in Van Buren Township Hall, 46425 Tyler Rd.

Scheduled to address the committee is Charles Hazen of the Michigan Department of Commerce's Industrial Development Division.

Hazen is expected to detail state and federal procedures relative to the development and establishment of industrial parks and districts.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARINGS

RE: RELATIVE TO ADOPTION OF A FACILITIES PLAN AND ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT OF PROPOSED ALTERNATIVES IN FACILITY PLANNING STUDY OF POLLUTION ABATEMENT OF ECORSE CREEK-NORTH BRANCH OF ECORSE CREEK DRAIN IMPROVEMENT AND SEXTON KILFOIL DRAIN, COMMONLY KNOWN AS THE SOUTH BRANCH OF ECORSE CREEK DRAIN.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Wayne County Drain Commissioner and the Drainage Boards for the above named intra-county drains in Wayne County, Michigan will hold Public Hearings on the proposed Facility Planning Study of Pollution Abatement of Ecorse Creek-North Branch of Ecorse Creek Drain Improvement and Sexton Kilfoil Drain, commonly known as the South Branch of Ecorse Creek Drain, for the purpose of receiving comments and views of interested persons. Detailed information in available for the review of any interested person or group and includes a copy of the project application and the draft of the Environmental Impact Statement. The hearings will be held as follows:

Date	Place	Time
December 9, 1974	Taylor City Hall 23555 Goddard Road Taylor, MI 48180	6:30 p.m.
December 10, 1974	Lincoln Park City Hall 1355 Southfield Road Lincoln Park, MI. 48146	6:30 p.m.
December 11, 1974	Allen Park City Hall 14650 Southfield Rd. Allen Park, MI 48101	6:30 p.m.

Three alternatives to abate pollution are outlined in the Facilities Planning Study. The three alternatives, denoted as A, B, and C, are:

A. Separation of Combined Sewers

B. Treatment of Combined Sewage Overflows

C. Treatment of Combined Sewage Overflows and Surface Runoff

Alternative A proposes the separation of combined sewers (sewers which carry both sanitary sewage and storm drainage) which involves construction of new sanitary or storm sewers to provide a separate conduit for each. This removes the storm waters from the sanitary sewers which in turn relieves the treatment plant and eliminates the overflow of combined sewage from the system. The total project cost associated with this alternative is $179,304,000.

Alternative B, Treatment of Combined Sewage Overflows, differs from Alternative A in that it proposes to treat the overflow of combined sewage before it enters the stream rather than attempting to eliminate the overflow. The total project cost associated with this alternative is $178,927,000.

Alternative C, Treatment of Combined Sewage Overflows and Surface Runoff, is basically an expansion of Alternative B. Under Alternative C a portion of the most polluted portion of the basin's storm sewage overflows ("Flush") would be treated in addition to the combined sewage overflows proposed under Alternative B. The total project cost associated with this alternative is $182,047,000.

It is the purpose of these hearings to receive comments on the environmental impact of each of the proposed alternatives. Copies of the proposed plan will be available for public inspection at public office as follows:

City Clerks for the cities of:

City of Allen Park 14850 Southfield Road Allen Park, Michigan 48101	City of Dearborn Heights 6045 Fenton Dearborn Heights, Michigan 48126
City of Ecorse 3869 W. Jefferson Ave. Ecorse, Michigan 48229	City of Inkster 2121 Inkster Road Inkster, Michigan 48141
City of Lincoln Park 1355 Southfield Road Lincoln Park, Michigan 48146	City of Melvindale 3100 Oakwood Blvd. Melvindale, Michigan 48122
City of Romulus 14650 Southfield Road Romulus, Michigan 48174	City of Southgate 13743 Northline Road Southgate, Michigan 48195

City of Wyandotte 3131 Biddle Avenue Wyandotte, Michigan 48192

Written comments on the draft impact statement may be submitted and any other comments are welcome and will also be received and entered into the record. Written comments may be sent to Charles N. Youngblood, Wayne County Drain Commissioner, 3400 Cadillac Tower, Detroit, Michigan 48226 and will be entered into Public Hearing Records through December 18, 1974.

Volunteers who want to attend training can call "The Number" at 699-2039 for the time and place of the today's session. Minimum age is 16. There is no maximum age. Counselors are asked to be available for one 4-hour shift per week and make a commitment of at least six months.

No prior education or experience in counseling is necessary to volunteer at "The Number."

Building rate declines

Building activity in Van Buren Township took a sharp dip during the month of October according to a monthly report issued by the township's building department.

Issuance of 43 building permits with an estimated construction cost of $67,605. This compares with 62 building permits and construction cost of $435,275 in September.

Residential construction amounted to $64,105 as against $171,335 in September. Residential building in October consisted mostly of alterations, additions and conversions projects. There were four new garages and carports built in October.

The total building permit fees collected in October were $613. This compares with $1,774 in September.

PCHA overcomes crisis to name hospital

After a bit of a public relation crisis, the Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA) has a name for its new hospital in Taylor.

The PCHA Board of Directors named the facility Heritage Hospital after a group of Taylor residents attempted to petition the board to name the facility after Dr. Robert L. Marshall, D.O., who perished in a skindiving mishap off of Gaum less than three weeks ago.

A group of dignitaries from the community, including its chief of police, sparked a controversy within the board by presenting it with more than 9,000 signatures asking that the hospital be named after the osteopath who practiced at the authority's Seaway Hospital in Trenton.

ALEXANDER PAPP, a former Taylor township supervisor, led the fight for the name because "the 9,000 signatures come from citizens of all communities in the PCHA, people who contribute millage to the support of the authority."

Papp claimed the committee of Taylor citizens obtained the signatures in "less than a week's work" and asked the board to delay the decision which was tabled last month to "give them more time to gain community support."

Wayne Mayor Patrick Norton, who heads the PCHA's community relations committee which is charged with picking names for the facility, said: "While the PCHA should recognize the efforts of the citizens who signed these petitions, it would be a break in tradition to name the hospital after a person."

Indian visits class

A resident from Belong, a city located near the City of Kampur in Northern India, recently visited Haggerty Road Elementary School in the Van Buren Public School.

She is Shashi Bharti, presently residing at the Lake in the Woods Apartment complex, Van Buren Township.

Mrs. Bharti visited the sixth grade class of teacher Robert Gray. The class was studying about India when Mrs. Bharti visited them.

She told the students about the people, schools, religion and customs of their homeland, presented pictures of India and left gifts with the students of hand jeweled key chains, earrings and pins.

Her husband is an engineer working for the Ford Motor Company in Dearborn and also is attending night school at the University of Michigan.

HANK AGUIRRE

Aguirre in hockey business

Former pitcher for the Detroit Tigers Hank Aguirre is now manager of the Ice Hockey Arenas of Romulus, Inc., a 2-rink facility situated at 8820 S. Inkster Rd., Romulus.

Commenting on his new assignment, Aguirre said: "We're putting the two rinks and the parking area in top shape and we're getting a lot of encouragement and help from the many teams using the arena."

Reservation for ice time may be made by calling 946-5696 or 946-5740.

dignitaries as Walter Reuther, Dwight D. Eisenhower, Harry S. Truman and Dr. Martin Luther King, but have discouraged those who passed the suggestion to the committee, because of the past policy.

"IF THE DECISION is delayed tonight, I think all citizens should have the right to petition for other names for the hospital."

Wayne City Councilman Kurt Heidmann suggested that the authority "reaffirm its person's and was supported with a unanimous vote.

Board member Edward Dudek of Inkster added: "There are many persons who have contributed to the PCHA, including one of its members, Hiram McNeely, who has served 10 years in the state legislature, 25 years in Inkster government and five years in the PCHA.

"However, I would vote against naming a hospital after him, because of the policy."

The board then chose the name "Heritage" over the other suggestion of Independence Hospital.

The board had deadlocked on the suggestion that the facility in Taylor be named Independence Hospital last month and tabled consideration of the question until now.

Besides Annapolis Hospital in Wayne, the PCHA's hospitals are named Seaway, Outer Drive and Beyer Memorial.

Beyer Memorial is named after an Ypsilanti resident, because the authority received a donation of a hospital building from the Beyer family with the stipulation that the hospital bear that name.

Theoretically, there is a state football playoff system this season. In reality, Ypsilanti would have been a serious candidate to represent Region II if the Michigan High School Athletic Association had decided to put theory into practice this year.

According to the MHSAA point system, Ypsilanti has amassed 90.429 points for its first seven victories, equalled to that of Trenton. So, Ypsilanti has "the team" in the area.

So, AND, THE above mentioned facts are stated here for the benefit of Belleville High grid team and Coach Keith Emerson who have the dubious honor of hosting the Braves Friday night for their season finale.

"No one has to tell us that Ypsilanti has an outstanding team this season," said Emerson, "we know it. And the way we have been playing, they can really blow us out of here."

"We can though pick up the pieces and show them we can play ball or face the consequences. Our players have the potential to beat anyone."

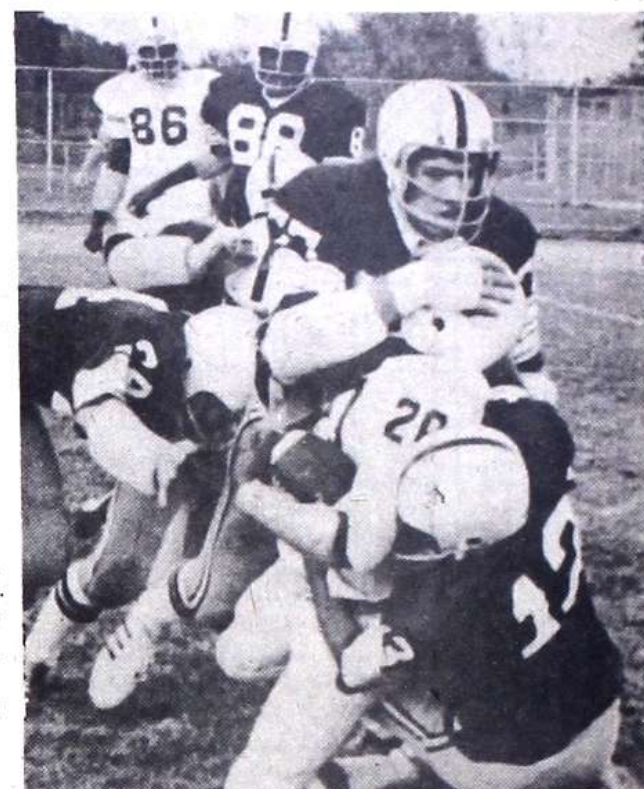

BELLEVILLE, after a crushing 30-3 defeat at the hands of Dearborn last Friday, will need every bit of manpower it can muster to stop the Braves.

Ypsilanti is coming off of a devastating 35-8 victory over Lansing Eastern. And the man the Tigers will have to stop is quarterback Kenny Robinson who passed for four touchdowns.

It was another quarterback, Dearborn's Don Klopick who caused Belleville's demise and sixth league loss in seventh starts. KLOPICK kept Belleville's secondary guessing as he connected on a pair of "bombs", to Lee Capatina which covered 79 and 39 yards.

Dearborn also scored on John Leone's 10 yard run and Dale Mason returned an intercepted Mark Verrot pass 70 yards into the end zone.

Leone wound up as the Pioneer's leading rusher with 118 yards on 14 carries.

END OF THE ROAD — Football, the high school version, comes to an end this Friday as prep gridders wind up the season against nonleague rivals. The three area schools - Belleville, Romulus and Huron - will attempt to snap out of their doldrums as all three lost their league finales. Belleville will have the toughest job, though, as Coach Keith Emerson's Tigers take on a highly-touted Ypsilanti contingent which is undefeated on the year. Belleville will host the curtain drawer.

Sports Meridian

A 3-mile run in the rain

By TOM MOORADIAN

Have you ever organized something and had the strange feeling that it'll be a "no show"?

Well, I get that feeling every time we stage an All-Area something or other. And, Monday, when the clouds burst and the rains refused to quit, I said to myself as I drove to Westland John Glenn, "Betcha, Tom, that this is that day."

And boy was I happy to lose that bet.

You see, Monday was the day for The Daily Eagle Associated Newspapers All-Area Cross Country showdown. This is the one where the high school runners who we have written about all year long, "put up, or shut up."

ONE OF THE LARGEST fields - and I don't even dare to estimate - assembled for the three-mile showdown. The runners braved the elements and the slippery turf to prove a point - that they are worthy of being tagged as the best.

It was a sight to behold.

I've heard of kids complain that we don't have this or that, we can't practice because we don't etc., etc., well, if you saw these preps "killing" themselves out there, you'd understand what real devotion is to a sport and training.

And, believe me you have to train to run three-miles.

Unlike, the other years, though we won't be able to reveal the results immediately because of our friends in Garden City and Canton. They get our paper once a week and since those cities produced a couple of outstanding harriers, we'll have to wait until tomorrow to announce the coveted All-Area team.

OVER THE YEARS some fine young men have competed in this meet.

Among the greats are Donnie Andersen, a graduate of Garden City West High who went on to be named an All-Area, Walt Nowak, ex-Wayne Memorial runner who was an All-Stater and Dave Smith, also from Wayne, who recently won the individual honors at the prestigious Notre Dame Invitational.

Smith is one of the undefeated runners at Eastern Michigan University.

Tomorrow, you'll see 10 young lads on these pages who could easily be tomorrow's All-Americans and Olympic champs.

These fellows are "super."

BEFORE WE LEAVE the cross country scene for another year, we'd like to thank the area coaches for their cooperation and help. Getting the information to us is three-quarters of the job and, without the facts and stats, we couldn't do it.

A special thanks to the school administration over at Westland John Glenn and Coach Jerry Szukaitis for staging the annual All-Area meet for us.

Still don't know who the Coach of the Year is folks, that's how close the balloting went.

ALL-AREA SHOWDOWN — One of the largest fields in the nine year history of the meet turned out Monday to compete for one of the 10 All-Area cross country berths. The top 10 will be revealed as well as the Associated Newspapers' Coach of the Year in next week's edition. Above, Garden City East's Art Kitz leads John Glenn's Toby Theodore (at extreme right), Dale Brown (Cherry Hill), and Churchill's Craig Gully during the first mile of the three mile race held at Westland John Glenn.

Oak Park's final drive ends in 5th Romulus loss, 7-6

Romulus was 1:40 away from its third football victory of the season before the walls collapsed on Coach Tom Baldwin's Eagles.

Leading Oak Park 6-0, Romulus failed to halt the Parkers' final drive of the game and lost a 7-6 decision to their visitors.

"We gave them the ball game," said Baldwin, "would you believe our defense held them most of the game? They put together an 80-yard drive in the last minutes and won."

Scoreless the first half, Romulus drew first blood when quarterback Michael Morrison combined with Andre Parson on a 60-yard pass-run touchdown play. Bob Blundell's attempt for the extra point failed to find the upright.

ROMULUS managed to successfully defend its 6-0 advantage until the final minutes of the game when the Parkers strung that 80-yard sustained drive together and capped it with Dave Maricino's one-yard TD plunge.

The Eagles didn't give up as yet. They had time to get the go-ahead score and marched to the Oak Park 42 yard line where they called out Blundell again, this time for a field goal.

Blundell's kick had the distance but was just wide of the goal posts.

"This was a disappointing loss because we had it in our hands and let the victory slip away," said Baldwin. "Those kind really hurt you."

The loss left the Eagles with a 2-6 over-all record and one game to go. They'll wrap it up on Friday at 3 p.m. at home against Detroit Austin.

"Austin is also having its problems this season," said Baldwin, "and it all boils down to this: the team that's mentally ready and wants to win the ball game more than the other, will win."

Baldwin singled out tackle Ed Abbott, who had nine solo tackles, and end George Butler, for their excellent performances on defense against Oak Park.

Morrison, who hit on three of 11 passes for 97 yards and rushed for 39 in six tries, led the Eagle offensive machine.

Belleville South rips Haston

Terry Turrentine broke loose on a 40-yard touchdown jaunt and Marty Thompkins dove for the extra points as South Junior High blanked Dearborn Heights Haston 16-0 last week.

Bob Cook capped a 50-yard sustained drive with a five-yard touchdown sprint and Cook then scored the extra points for the other South score.

Tim Rizzo, a defensive end, and Larry Pingston, also an end, teamed with Tom Rowe, a tackle, to harass Haston ballcarriers.

Huron has four more quarters in which to produce a touchdown. And, if the Chiefs don't score Friday against their final rival of the 1974 season, Woodhaven, they will probably go down as the first varsity football team in the New Boston high school's history that failed to score a TD during an entire season.

And Woodhaven, which beat a highly-touted Plymouth Canton aggregation last week, isn't a pushover.

"I know that they (Woodhaven) have a good football team because they have met some real fine football teams and come out of the battles looking goods," said Huron Coach Jim Rossow.

"WE STILL haven't been able to get things together," said the Chief coach after his team was blanked for the seventh time this season, losing to Grosse Ile 35-0. "We're a young club and we did show that we can play, but we just can't seem to score."

The Islanders, who wound up in a two-way tie for second in the final league standings, scored once in the first quarter, turned it into a 13-0 lead at half before exploding for 15 points in the third quarters.

Sophomore Huron quarterback Craig Beattie showed a lot of poise in his appearance on the gridiron but the Islanders made the Chiefs' defense work overtime so Craig had only limited opportunities. Sophomore end Terry Suemnick and middle guard Ken Smith, also looked promising.

Tecumseh, which won all seven of its league games, captured the 1974 version of the Huron Conference championship. Huron, meanwhile, ended the league season in the cellar - losing all seven games.

Woodhaven will host the Chiefs for the season's nonleague finale. Kickoff is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

There was more than one reason why George Lovich wanted to beat North Farmington.

Yes, the outcome of the game would decide the Northwest Suburban Conference football championship.

Yes, it would give Livonia Franklin its second consecutive undefeated league season, stretching its winning streak in the tough Northwest to 13.

But, he wanted the guys downtown to know that there is a Livonia Franklin, something that the state Class A polls don't show.

The quiet - except on a gridiron - dynamic Lovich served notice last week that his team deserved more recognition that it was getting from the mass media.

"I JUST WANTED them (the newspapers) to know we exist," Lovich is quoted as saying.

The 23-22 victory over the tough North Farmington team obviously will give the Patriots some of their earned recognition.

"It isn't for me, it's for the kids," Lovich said. And that argument is backed up with a little known fact - Lovich will not be the Patriots head coach next year. He's stepping down.

"When I was first interviewed for the athletic director's job earlier in the year, I was told that the coach entails a lot of responsibility and time.

Being the AD for only a short time I can see the point," Lovich said, "being coach of a major sport is just too much to ask of an athletic director. There are so many things that have to be done."

The 36-year-old graduate of California State College, (Calif., Penn.) received a masters from Eastern Michigan and has been the Franklin head coach for seven years. He worked as Bob Bentley's assistant as a backfield coach for two years before taking the team over.

DURING HIS TENURE as head coach, Lovich has compiled a 49-9-1 won-lost-tied record, which makes him one of the winningest, if not the winningest coach in these parts.

Like almost every coach, Lovich covets an undefeated season. It eluded him last year when Bentley, a citynonleague rival, pulled an upset in the final game of the 1973 season.

Lovich and the Patriots are two games away from their goal: Churchill and Bentley stand in their paths to a perfect 9-0 record.

"It's amazing," said Lovich, "this year the kids have been fantastic because when we started we had only three regulars back off of last year's team.

"This group just doesn't know what it is to quit," he said.

Lovich's teams have won three league championships during his tenure. Along with this year's undefeated team, and the 1973 championship squad (8-1), the Patriots also shared the title in George's first year as coach with North Farmington.

"Will you do me a favor?" asked the Patriot coach, "I just want you to get in there somewhere how loyal our fans are out there. They are just wonderful people.

"Will you do me a favor?" asked the Patriot coach, "I just want you to get in there somewhere how loyal our fans are out there. They are just wonderful people.

"LIKE SATURDAY. We were down at the half 15-14, and about 500 of our fans came down to the field and watched our kids march off the field, shouting encouragement to the players.

JOB STUDY
A national study shows that most American workers are reasonably satisfied with their jobs and that better than 60 percent. If they had to do it all over again, would choose the same job they now have. However many were dissatisfied with having to fight miles of traffic to get to work. If you love your job, but hate the driving, check the Associated Newspapers Classified Ads for a long term mileage, easy to park car.
It'll help keep maintenance costs down, make getting there more fun. Check now!

BLINKING CANE
Walking alongside a roadway at night, the user of a new British cane need only flip a switch to set off a built-in blinking light and warn drivers of his presence. If you've been getting warning signals that your budget is in bad shape, let The Associated Newspaper's Classified Ads come to your aid. Just go through your home and make a list of all the things that you no longer use. Then dial 729-3300 and let the friendly Ad Writer who answers, help you word your ad for quickest results. Do it now!

NOISE AND SLEEP
Many experts feel that added noise not only disturbs sleep but that excessive noise levels may make people more irritable even when they are not aware of the noise. If noise is getting you down make sure you check the Associated Newspaper's Classified Ads for beautiful suburban areas where there are new and used homes for sale in all price ranges. Get out to where the snow is clean. Check there today!

Sheriff warns stores of phony check ring

Businessmen in Romulus and other Wayne County communities are urged to be extra cautious when cashing customers' personal and payroll checks, since the discovery of a phony check ring operating in the area.

Wayne County Sheriff's Department detectives last week arrested five persons in Romulus in connection with the manufacturing and passing of illegally produced checks, to bring the arrest total to nine since detectives entered the case Sept. 16.

Detectives are also investigating a case involving stolen checks from Romulus which are being passed in Wayne, Inkster, Westland and Wyandotte.

"BUSINESSMEN are getting hooked and we want to warn them about it," said Det. John Johnson of the Sheriff Department's Romulus Bureau. "Before cashing a check, the store owner or bar owner or other businessman should call the company the check is written on, or if it's a personal check call the person the check is written on."

John said the bad check ring, which may include more than the nine arrested persons, apparently began operating in the area about two months ago.

He said the printing of phony company checks in a popular trick of the ring members, but the printing of blank personal checks is the most prevalent activity. A typical move by the forgers would be to cash a phony $150 to $200 check at a grocery store while making a grocery purchase.

Johnson said the average fake personal check cashed is $175.

Halloween party includes monthly birthday honors

The recent pot-luck dinner and Halloween party held by Romulus Senior Citizens No. 1 was a big success with Helen Ford winning first prize for her comical bridal costume in the women's category. Dressed as a handsome bridegroom, Loraine Richardson took first in the men's division.

Other awards went to Dorothy LaLonde, a second place for her roaring 20's swinger outfit and Dorothy Icenogle, third, as an old-fashioned girl. Again men's prizes went to women: to Adelia Wilson, a second, for her portrayal of a chef and Amy Robertson, third, a sleepwalker in cap and nightgown.

Judging the costumes were Beverly McAnally, Carl Bales, Charlotte Troutt and Donna Zavitz. Prizes were made and donated by Dorothy LaLonde and included the door awards won by Frank Sands and Anderson Walker. Several games of bingo were played after which Ernie Block entertained on the piano and Charles Kitzmiller on the fiddle.

The celebration also included the monthly birthday party with nine members seated at the birthday table: Ellen Johnson, Eva Harrison, Frank Sands, Sarah Riley, Ernell Sands, Rita Soave, Emilie Bloom, Adell Much and Myrtle Rehkoff.

NEW APPOINTEES — Studying a directory of camping and travel opportunities are three newly-appointed field directors named by the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council. The directors are (from left) Delthea Kinney of Ypsilanti, working with the Plymouth-Northville and Western Wayne Girl Scouts; Elaine Barkover of Ann Arbor, in charge of Girl Scouting in Western Washtenaw, southern Wayne and Livingston counties, and June Stuppelle of Ypsilanti, working with eastern Washtenaw County and Ann Arbor Girl Scouts.

Girl Scouts name area women troop directors

Four area women have been appointed to volunteer supervisory positions with the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, it was announced by Louise Taylor, Council Program Director.

Appointed troop services directors are Mrs. Walter (Loretta) Radisovich of 21901 Sumpter Rd., Belleville; Ms. Lynne M. Slaughter of 30510 Dorset, Romulus; Mrs. Charles (Diane) Hazen of 14640 Hannan, Romulus and Mrs. Harry (Sandy) Ruhmann of 25127 Kathy Drive, Flat Rock.

As troop services directors they are responsible for recruiting troop leaders, training them, providing program ideas, and researching community services opportunities for troops.

MRS. RADISOVICH is in charge of three troops meeting at Sumpter School. An experienced Girl Scout adult, Mrs. Radisovich has served as a Brownie troop committee member for three years and currently is a Junior troop leader.

Mrs. Hazen was a girl member of Girl Scouts for five years and has worked with the council as a resource person for area troops. A former children's librarian in Trenton, she is currently head librarian at Romulus Library.

Working with Mrs. Hazen in Romulus is Ms. Slaughter who is now responsible for three troops meeting at Merriman School, which include 45 girls. Ms. Slaughter has been a Junior troop leader and a girl member of Girl Scouting. She has also served as a member of the Citizens Advisory Council in Wayne and president of Merriman Parent Teachers Association.

'Family night' held

The annual "family night" dinner of the Past Matrons' Association of Belleville Chapter No. 73, O.E.S., was held at the Masonic Temple, Oct. 30 with 42 present for a Swiss steak dinner cooked by the officers. Tables were decorated with Halloween colors.

Besides the Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron-elect with their husband and wife, two other guests were present, Mrs. Christy Schweitzer from East Kingston, N.H., and Mrs. Sylvia Johnson from Erie, Mich.

Following dinner the names of secret pals were told and names drawn for the new year. Pokeno was then enjoyed.

Past Matron Ada Sager will be hostess for the December meeting.

Business Women's Week ends with cavalcade finale in Lansing

Climaxing a week-long celebration in honor of National Business Women's Week, some 200 working women from all parts of the state arrived in a cavalcade in Lansing Oct. 26 at Long's Restaurant. They represented the Michigan Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Michigan State Federation President Phyllis Harrison of Royal Oak presided at the dinner meeting. Miss Harrison, president of the Harrison Insurance Agency, is traveling throughout the state this year promoting the interests of business and professional women.

Participating in the cavalcade and attending the dinner from the Belleville B.P.W. Club were Bertha Rettig, president; Helen White, parliamentarian, and Betty Savage, B.P.W. Woman of the Year and assistant director of District No. 15.

ANOTHER RECENT activity which included the Belleville club was the District 15 fall meeting Oct. 29 at the Wyandotte Yacht Club in Wyandotte.

River Rouge and Trenton Clubs were hostesses for the confab which included guests from the state federation, Joyce Mallory, state president-elect, and Marlene Danol, state membership chairman, who was also guest speaker.

Attending from the Belleville club were Barbara Mitchell, Alice Brady, Georgia Badgett, Ruth Baehr, Mildred Artley and Stella Adams.

Still others were Marie Clayton, Ruth Davis, Mary Hoff, Ruth Lindsay, Jean McCordle, Ethel McDonald, Bertha Rettig, Margaret Saunders, Betty Savage, Dorothy Westergard and Helen White.

Catholic award earned by six area Girl Scouts

During mass at St. Anthony's recently six Belleville area Girl Scouts received the "Immaculate Mary Medal", which is the Catholic award for Junior Girl Scouts.

To earn this award the girls had to complete 13 requirements set up by the Archdiocesan Committee for Girl Scouts under the Catholic Youth Organization. All the requirements are based on the national Girl Scout promise and laws to serve God, community and mankind; but with emphasis given in honor of the Blessed Mother.

It has meant seven months of meetings, work and service under the leadership of Mrs. Joan Monforton. St. Anthony's Mothers Club sponsored the girls and purchased the medals for them.

The scouts, who received the awards, were Lisa Duff and Sharon Lauth of Troop No.

287, Sandra Innes of Troop No. 251 and Robin Wood, Julie Rosinski and Marie Monforton from Troop No. 587.

June 21 wedding planned

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gildea of 34136 Rosslyn, Westland, announce the engagement of their daughter Linda Kay, to Walter Roger Baleja of New Boston.

Miss Gildea, currently a senior at John Glenn High School, is making plans for a June 21 wedding at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in New Boston.

The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Walter Baleja of 27450 Carleton West Rd., New Boston, and the late Mr. Baleja. He was graduated from Huron High School in 1972 and is self-employed as a dealer for Clark Oil in Taylor.

BAHAMAS ON CALENDAR — Paul Lessnau (right), manager of Wrigley Supermarket at 17500 Livernois in Detroit, and his wife Rosemary, have just returned from a four-day sales and merchandising seminar in the Grand Bahamas. Lessnau, who resides on Denton Road in Belleville, was one of 22 supermarket managers from around the United States selected for the trip by Allied Supermarkets, Inc. on the basis of in-store merchandising and sales performance.

WOM mark 25th year

The Women of the Moose, Chapter No. 1135, celebrated their 25th anniversary Oct. 26. There were several collegians, dignitaries, co-workers and guests from other lodges.

Dean of Academy of Friendship National Board, Myrtle Haven was there. Past Deputy Grand Regents Laura Buss, Florence Hiler, Florence Lear, Lynn Bradford, Alice Voycheck, and Betty VanHeck, Grand Council member, also attended.

The Loyal Order presented a check, cake, and plaque to the Women of the Moose.

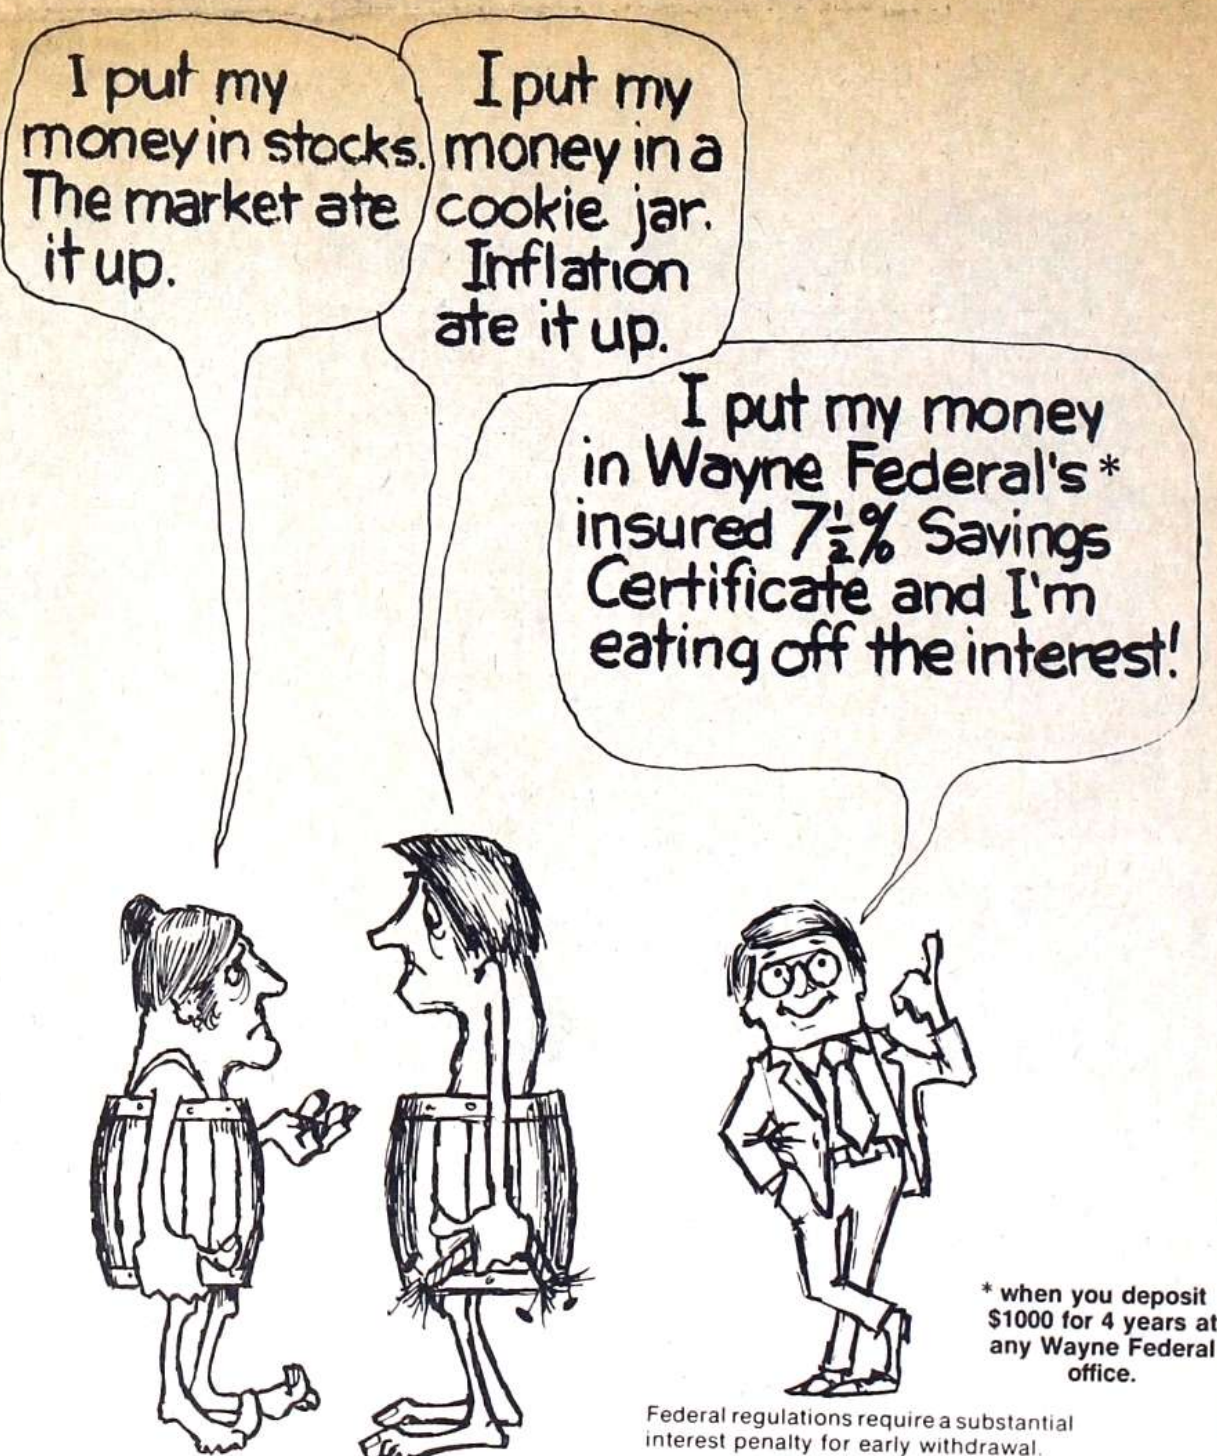

Ten new members were enrolled at the anniversary: Peggy Clark, Dorothy Swoffire, Helen Collins, Edna Dwery, Sara Moose, Wilma Nesley, Judy McDonald, Leona Farr, Lois Pareat and Susan Rodos.

A candle lighting ceremony with the 25 oldest members took place and a floor show put on by the loyal order.

Romulus couple marry in Baptist ceremony

Northline Baptist Church in Taylor was the setting for the Oct. 5 ceremony which united Cheryl Ann Byrd and John David O'Dell, both of Romulus, in holy matrimony.

The Rev. David Rice presided at the 4 p.m. rite before some 150 assembled guests. For the double ring nuptials, the altar was appointed with two vases of white gladiolas. Organist was Mrs. David Rice.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver A. Byrd of 34522 California and Mr. and Mrs. John Dewey O'Dell of 12340 Harrison, all of Romulus, are parents of the young couple.

ENTERING THE church on the arm of her father, Cheryl appeared in a toe-touching gown patterned in the A-line mode with a V-neckline, long sleeves and a chapel train. Val and venise lace added accents to the hemline and bodice.

More of the lace was used on the chapel-length veil which was caught to a crescent Camelot lace cap. Completing her bridal finery was a bouquet of cascading white miniature carnations.

As her sister's matron of honor, Mrs. David Shahan of Romulus donned a floor-length gown of turquoise crepe topped with a hooded jacket. Her bouquet was comprised of mums in yellow, butterscotch and orange and rosebuds in yellow.

Wearing identical ensembles were the three bridesmaids, Karen Kay Sears of Coalgood, Ky., the bride's cousin; Mrs. Michael Birmingham of Milan and Mrs. Wayne Jones of Mt. Clemens, the bridegroom's cousin.

FIVE-YEAR OLD Elizabeth Ward, daughter of the Robert Wards, as flowergirl wore a frock similar to the bridal gown and a fluff of netting for her headpiece and carried a miniature version of the bride's bouquet.

Mark Shahan, six, the son of the David Shahan, carried out the role of ringbearer.

The bridegroom chose Robert Ingram of Romulus to serve as best man. The trio of groomsmen included David Shahan of Romulus, brother-in-law of the bride; Ronald O'Dell of Romulus, brother of the bridegroom and Michael Birmingham of Milan.

At the reception in the church hall the bride's mother received in a long gown of green polyester with silver trim and accessories. The bridegroom's mother chose to wear a pale blue polyester formal gown with white accessories. Both were presented with white carnation corsages tipped in the shade of their dresses.

Both young people are graduates of Romulus High School. The new Mrs. O'Dell is employed at Household Finance Co. in Dearborn and her husband is with Mastercraft in Belleville.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN D. O'DELL

Church of Christ ceremony unites Sears-Johnson

Wedding vows were exchanged Oct. 26 between Pamela K. Johnson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chandious Johnson of 20000 Crandell Ct., Belleville, and Bartholomew A. Sears, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Casper Sears Sr. of 615 N. River St., Ypsilanti.

The Church of Christ in Belleville was the setting for the double ring nuptials conducted by the Rev. David Rushlow.

Some 200 relatives and friends watched as Pam walked up the aisle with her father. For her wedding day she chose to wear a formal gown of venise lace and organza styled with a fitted bodice, long full sleeves cuffed at the wrist and an A-line skirt which extended into a chapel train bordered in lace.

MATCHING VENISE lace formed the Camelot cap which held her chapel veil. An arrangement of white carnations, pink sweetheart roses and baby's breath completed her ensemble.

As her honor attendant, the bride chose one of her childhood friends, Brenda (Bearden) Lacy of Wyandotte. The bridegroom had Joseph Greene of Garden City as his best man.

Mrs. Lacy appeared in a polka-dotted burgundy gown fashioned with a V-neckline, long fitted sleeves and a hooded bodice. She carried a white fur muff accented with pink carnations, red roses and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids in matching ensembles were Elizabeth Johnson, sister of the bride; Kristine Sears, niece of the bridegroom and Jennifer Lowhorn, sister of the bride, all of Belleville.

JILL JOHNSON was her sister's flowergirl in a miniature version of the senior attendants' frocks. She too, carried a white fur muff.

The corps of ushers included Casper Sears Jr. of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom; Mark Greene of Garden City and Thomas Farmer of Ypsilanti. Bartholomew Marshall of Ypsilanti was ringbearer at his uncle's wedding.

For the occasion, the bride's mother wore a floor-length pink knit dress and a corsage of white carnations and pink roses. Mrs. Sears, the bridegroom's mother, donned a full-length blue gown. Her corsage was comprised of blue carnations and pink roses.

Pam, a 1974 graduate of Belleville High School, is employed at Women's Hospital in Ann Arbor. Her husband is a 1971 alumnus of Ypsilanti High School employed by the Ford Motor Co. at Rawsonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Casper Sears entertained at the rehearsal party at their home in Ypsilanti.

Newcomer's baptism prompts trip to East

By Mrs. Joseph Spring 699-4021

Mrs. Harold Klaiss of River Rouge and Mrs. Clayton Saunders of Belleville returned home Oct. 27, from Weare, N.H., where they had spent two weeks with the Robert Saunders family.

While there the two grandmothers were privileged to attend the baptism on Sunday, Oct. 20 of their eight-months old granddaughter, Erin Michelle Saunders, at Wesley United Methodist Church in Concord. Little Erin was baptized on her mother's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel F. Ross and small daughter, Rachel, of Falls Church, Va., were last week-end guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Ross of Quirk Road and grandmother, Mrs. D.W. Ross of Liberty Street, all of Belleville.

Mrs. B.P. Hopson of Belleville Road returned to Belleville last week after having spent the past month with friends, Mrs. George Crane at Hendersonville, N.C., and Miss Missy Compton at Monticue, N.C. She also spent some time with a nephew and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Cavanaugh and family at Independence, Ky.

Mrs. Russel Price (Vera) of Liberty Street underwent major surgery at St. Joseph Hospital, Ann Arbor, Oct. 30.

A "welcome" is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D'Anico, former residents of Westland, who have recently purchased Elken's Kennels at 15803 Hoeft Road. The D'Anicos are the parents of three married sons and two daughters, Linda and Lisa, who are living at home.

Mrs. Dorothy Kellas of Margery Street and friend, Miss Mildred Mackey from Detroit, returned home last week after enjoying an eight-day trip to Spain sponsored by the Ford Employees Recreation Association. Among the many interesting places visited were Seville, Cordoba and the Alhambra in Granada.

A boat trip to Tangiers in Morocco, where the Arabian Conference was being held, Malaga and the caves in Nerja were also on their agenda. Enroute over Toronto a fuel leak was discovered in the landing gear and they had to dump all fuel and make an emergency landing at New York Kennedy Airport for repairs before continuing on their journey.

Lloyd Orr of Harmony Lane, Belleville, underwent major surgery at St. Joseph Hospital in Ann Arbor on Oct. 30.

Mrs. Muriel Smith of Liberty Street, Belleville, spent last week-end in Perry with her niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nanasy. On Sunday she attended a dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Benjamin of Fowlerville in celebration of their son Michael's birthday.

All around the town

Hayride held

By Lee Smith Suburban Living Editor

The Robert S. Evanskis of Hoeft Road, Belleville, played host to some 75 Belleville High students recently. All members of the B.H.S. marching band, they gathered together for a hayride and party (which got underway around 6 p.m.) and later enjoyed dancing and a simple buffet meal.

The house was decorated with the autumn look of pumpkins, corn-stalks and bales of hay. Before going on a "midnight" hayride (which means any jaunt after 9 p.m.) the musicians entertained themselves around a huge bonfire in their hosts' backyard. Mr. E. surprised the group by showing them slides he had taken on the "Q. T." during band camp this past August. Since no one had been aware of the hidden, lurking photographer, they saw themselves in the most natural of situations which proved to be pretty hilarious in many cases.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Roddick and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hawkins with the band's director Dennis Miller and his wife served as chaperones for the occasion.

Mrs. Roddick (the former Trudy Evanski) made a big tiger cake and decorated cupcakes to spell "B.H.S. Marching Band" for the group's enjoyment.

Friends fete mom-to-be

Cindy Conley (the former Cindy Matulewicz of Belleville) was the surprised guest of honor Oct. 13 at a cradle shower in her home. Held at the home of Mary St. John on Liberty Street, Belleville, the group of well-wishers included Gloria Sotomayor, Linda Lewis, Debbie Compton, Dorie Hawkins, Jan Stureminski and Kathy St. John.

A buffet-style luncheon was served after which the mother-to-be unwrapped gifts for her future heir. A cake, decorated half in pink and half in blue, was the highlight of the serving table.

Grandma comes to visit

Mrs. Bessie Kline came from Anaheim, Calif. recently to visit her son and daughter-in-law, Charles and Lucy Kline of Cherry Avenue in Romulus.

The trip to the mid-west was prompted by the arrival in August of the visitor's newest and ninth grandchild, Franklin Sanford Kline, who along with his sister, four-year-old Cheryl, thoroughly enjoyed the month-long visit (and being spoiled) by their grandmother.

Smith-Schonfeld vows planned for next autumn

MISS SMITH

The engagement of their daughter, Luanne, to Peter Jeffery Schonfeld is being announced by Mr. and Mrs. Bert G. Smith of 41435 Edison Lake Rd., Belleville.

The bride-elect was graduated from Belleville High School in 1971 and is currently in her senior year at Kalamazoo College where she is studying psychology and biology. For the past three years she has worked as a secretary in the women's physical education department.

Her fiancé, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Schonfeld of 665 N. Fairgrounds Rd., Imlay City, is a 1971 alumnus of Imlay City High School. He, too, is a senior at K. College. An economics major, he plans to do graduate work in the field of hospital administration. He is employed as a security guard at Check Motor, In. of Kalamazoo.

The couple plan to be married in late October of 1975.

Co-op nursery enjoys Halloween

The children of the Huron Countryside Cooperative Nursery had a Halloween party during class Oct. 28. Everyone was in costume. It was scary to be among so many spider men, devils, and witches.

Some of the assisting moms were especially frightful sights in their get-ups, too! Many tense moments were spent as the boys and girls closed their eyes during the playing of a "Haunted Halloween" record.

The children participated in games of musical chairs, pin-the-tail-on the donkey, and tossing balls into a pumpkin. Snacks of fruit juice and "donut holes" were enjoyed, and several treats were passed out by classmates.

The highlight of the event was when the children "drew lots" for pumpkins to take home to make their very own jack-o-lanterns.

G.S. investiture held

Girl Scout Troop No. 369 of Edgemont Elementary School had its investiture ceremony Oct. 22 with the Eagle Patrol presenting the opening flag ceremony. Their leader, Mrs. Adrienne Whittico, announced the selection of Annette Donnelly as troop scribe and Marty McNally as troop treasurer.

Troop patrol leaders are Kathy Posegay, Betsy Taylor, Missy McMahon, Regina Halfacre and Debra Stull.

Mrs. Whittico presented badges, service stars and pins. An 'award of merit' was accepted by Jearold Cook for principal Sam Lo Presto in recognition of the school's sponsorship of the troop.

Jennifer Lynne is new addition

There's a new baby out at the home of Kenneth and Bonnie Mientkiewicz of 37207 Menton, Romulus. The new addition, a daughter, put in her appearance Oct. 7 at Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti.

The 7 lb.-12 oz. infant, named Jennifer Lynne, is the little sister of Kenny Thomas who's six years old.

Bake a gift for Christmas

While costs continue to rise, take a break-monetarily-by making Christmas presents at home. Try a braided coffee cake, fruit cake miniatures or bread sculpture to add a new dimension to the thought of giving presents. If the scent of homemade baked goods doesn't convince you, the taste will.

Try Christmas giving with homemade touch

If you're making a list and checking it twice like Santa Claus, then check it to see what gifts can be made in the kitchen.

With the cost of most merchandise continuing its upward climb, gifts of homemade goods this yule season may be a way of getting around crowded stores and the worries of what to get for each person.

Nothing is as appealing as a present of food, even if it doesn't last forever. And who could overlook the thoughtfulness behind something fresh from the kitchen.

COFFEECAKES OR fruit cake miniatures are foods that you might well bake for your own family and guests. When you get into that rhythm of mixing and baking, it's easy to make extras for the gift list. A nice way of presenting these different cakes might be in a tube pan for the holiday coffeecake, an attractive wooden tray for the tea ring or braid and muffin pans or even a sleigh for the fruit cake miniatures.

If you're doing your baking much in advance of the holidays, the freezer is an excellent place for storing home-baked goodies. When made with butter, they'll be just as flavorful as when they came out of the oven. In case of holiday coffeecakes and the fruit cake miniatures, both made with sour cream, there's good moistness which make them an ideal candidate for freezing.

Special occasion breads for winter festivities also have taken on a new twist—away from fancy yeast coffee cakes to bread sculpture. Fun and different, bread sculpture reflects today's interest in arts and crafts. But bread sculpting isn't new. More than 4,000 years ago the Egyptians baked bread into flower and bird shapes as offerings to the gods.

Now the pendulum is swinging back, and today the dough is made from sturdy whole wheat and rye flours with nuts or sprouted wheat added for texture and flavor.

Although there's nothing that is ever really new when an idea comes back there are changes so basic something new is created.

BREAD SCULPTURE comes from other sources around the world. French bakers often specialize in this art form. One of the most outstanding is a bread sculpture in the shape and actual size of a bicycle.

Bread sculptures can be for all kinds of special events—christenings, weddings, anniversaries and the holidays.

The ability to utilize the creative process in many kitchen tasks makes cooking and baking fun. Basic ingredients mixed together, kneaded, knotted, shaped or poured become something totally different than their component parts. And just as the sculptor of stone or clay the joy of creation is experienced.

Chase yuletide's chill with cakes, spice tea

With the holidays around the corner, now is the time to plan for those festive evenings when friends and relatives will be stopping by.

To chase the winter chill offer them a cup of hot spiced tea and a piece of coffee cake or a fruit cake miniature while catching up on family affairs.

To make the tea combine 1 1/4 cups instant orange-flavored breakfast drink, 1/2 cup sugar, one-third cup, instant tea 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves and a dash of salt. Store in a tightly covered jar.

To prepare the tea, add 1 well-rounded teaspoon of the spicy mixture in a cup. Add boiling water and stir. Serve immediately.

HOLIDAY TEA RING OR BRAID

Dough 4 1/2 to 5 cups all-purpose flour 1/2 cup sugar 1 1/2 teaspoons salt

2 packages active dry yeast 1 cup milk 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter 2 eggs

10 crushed cardamom seed

Filling for Tea Ring

2 tablespoons softened butter 1/2 cup sugar 1/2 cup raisins

2 teaspoons cinnamon

Filling for Braid

1/2 cup apricot pastry filling 2 tablespoons chopped almonds

1/4 teaspoon almond extract

Confectioners Frosting

1 cup confectioners sugar 1 to 2 tablespoons milk

Combine 1 1/2 cups flour, sugar, salt and yeast in a large mixing bowl. Combine milk and butter in a 1-quart saucepan; heat until warm (120-130 degrees). Gradually, add to flour. Beat 2 minutes at medium speed, scraping bowl occasionally. Add eggs, 1 cup flour and cardamom seed. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough remaining flour to make a soft dough.

Turn onto lightly floured surface; knead 8-10 minutes or until smooth and satiny. Place in buttered bowl, turning once to butter top. Cover bowl. Let rise on rack over hot water until doubled, (about 1-1 1/2 hours. Punch down; turn out onto lightly floured surface. Cover and let rest 10 minutes.

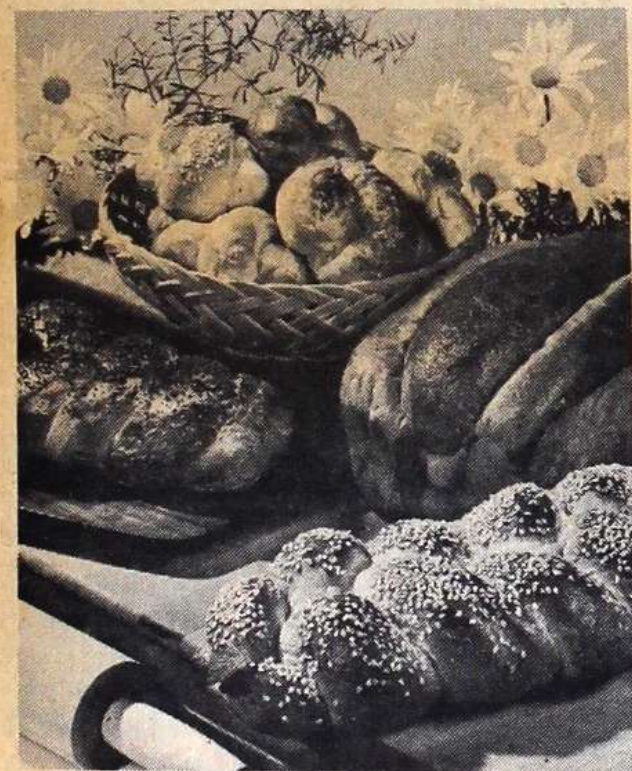

Divide dough in half to make 2 breads.

To prepare tea ring: Roll dough into 18-by 7-inch rectangle. Spread with softened butter. Mix sugar, raisins, and cinnamon; sprinkle over dough. Roll up tightly, beginning at wide side. Seal well by pinching edges of roll together. Place sealed-edge down in ring on lightly buttered baking sheet. Join ends of ring; seal. With scissors, make cuts two-thirds of the way through the ring at 1-inch intervals. Turn each section on its side. Cover; let rise on rack over hot water until double in bulk (35-40 minutes).

Brush with egg wash made by mixing 1 egg and 1 tablespoon water. Bake in pre-heated 350-degree oven, 20-25 minutes. Remove to wire rack to cool. Frost while warm with confectioners frosting.

To prepare braid: Roll dough into 18-by 7-inch rectangle. Place on lightly buttered baking sheet. Combine apricot filling, almonds and almond extract; spread lengthwise down center third of rectangle. Cut 1-inch wide strips along both sides of filling cutting from filling out to edges of dough. Fold stripes at an angle across filling, alternating from side to side.

Cover; let rise on rack over hot water until double in bulk (35-40 minutes). Brush with egg wash. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven 20-25 minutes. Remove to wire rack to cool. Frost while warm with confectioners frosting. Yields two breads.

FANCY TWIST—Simple ways of making fancy breads can include frozen bread dough that can be braided, knotted to form snail rolls, or combined for a different taste. With a dash of oil or egg wash even the most inexperienced baker can reproduce glazed rolls and bread cheaper than their mass-produced relatives.

Frozen dough has new twist

Braided breads, snail dinner rolls and combination bread are easy to make with the new frozen bread doughs now available. Better yet, such home-baked specialties are usually far less expensive than purchased baked goods—a plus for the homemaker faced with rising food costs. The makers of frozen bread doughs developed these simple instructions for making attractively shaped and glazed breads. The bread dough is available in the frozen food case of leading food stores.

BRAIDED BREAD

Thaw a 1-pound loaf of white or honey wheat bread dough, well wrapped, in refrigerator overnight. In the morning, let dough warm to room temperature. Cut lengthwise into 3 equal pieces; roll each piece into a long tapered cylinder. Lightly grease a cookie sheet and place three strips of dough parallel on it; braid strips together and pinch ends to seal. Brush loaf lightly with salad oil and let rise until double in size. Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Brush loaf with egg wash (one egg lightly beaten with two tablespoons water) and sprinkle top with sesame or poppy seeds. Bake about 30 minutes or until bread is golden brown and sounds hollow when tapped on top and bottom. Cool on wire rack.

SNAIL ROLLS

Follow thawing directions in recipe above. Break off small lumps of dough and roll into pencil-shaped cylinders. Form each cylinder into a half knot and place on lightly greased cookie sheet. Brush lightly with oil and let rise until doubled. Bake in a preheated 375 degree oven for 20 minutes or until golden brown. Cool on rack.

COMBINATION BREAD

Thaw one loaf each white and honey wheat bread doughs and warm to room temperature. Cut each loaf lengthwise into 4 equal strips. Lightly grease two 8 1/2-by 4 1/2-by 2 1/2-inch bread pans. In each pan, place side by side a strip of honey wheat dough, a strip of white dough, and a strip of honey wheat dough. Place another strip of white dough on top. Brush loaves with oil and let rise until doubled. Bake in a preheated 375 degree oven about 30 minutes. Remove from pans and cool on racks. Makes two loaves.

SCHEMING GENTS—Discreetly planning a love affair, the Duke of Milan (Larry Fishman) and Valentine (Mark Blum) wend their way through the plot of the National Shakespeare Company's production of "The Two Gentlemen of Verona," which will be staged in the Clarenceville High School Auditorium on Nov. 14 under the sponsorship of the Schoolcraft College Cultural and Public Affairs Series.

'Two Gentlemen' tells of friendship

Western Wayne County theater-goers will be able to enjoy one of Shakespeare's earliest comedies when the National Shakespeare Company brings its production of "The Two Gentlemen of Verona" to the Clarenceville High School Auditorium, 20155 Middlebelt Rd., Livonia, at 8 p.m. on Nov. 14.

The play, presented under the sponsorship of the Schoolcraft College Cultural and Public Affairs Series, is a lively, delightful comedy-farce about the young and two subjects that greatly concern young people: love and friendship.

Tickets are $3 and may be obtained at the Schoolcraft College Bookstore, 18600 Haggerty Rd., Livonia, 8:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Thursday and until 3 p.m. Fridays and at the Clarenceville box office, Thursdays and Fridays. Call 591-6400, extension 252 for information.

Talks feature antiques

Antique collectors and enthusiasts in Western Wayne County will find a new series of lectures at the Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn to be interesting and informative.

The museum opens its 23rd annual series of antiques lectures at 8:30 p.m. Friday in the Museum Theater, with the theme of the new series being, "Americana Collections in Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum."

Illustrated lectures by seven members of the village and museum staff examine specific areas of the world-renowned collections displayed there. Among the topics which will come under consideration during the series are ceramics, clocks, prints, pewter and silver, glass and furniture.

Robert G. Wheeler, vice-president of research and interpretation, is the first speaker in the monthly series. He will discuss "Henry Ford, the collector."

Wheeler has been vice-president of the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village since 1969. His educational background includes training at Syracuse University, Columbia University and the New York State College for Teachers in Albany. He also studied business with the General Electric Co., specializing in accounting and business law.

Wheeler joined the museum staff in 1968. Prior to assuming the vice-presidency, he was director of crafts.

He began his museum career at the Albany Institute of History and Art where from 1943 to 1956 he served as museum assistant, assistant director and director. In 1956, he was appointed director of research and interpretation at the Sleepy Hollow Restorations in Tarrytown, N.Y.

In addition to his museum career, Wheeler has served as an instructor of American art and art history at Russell Sage College, has taught New York history at the annual seminars on American culture for the New York State Historical Association in Cooperstown, and was instructor in New York history for Dutchess Community College in Poughkeepsie.

The antiques lectures will be presented on the first or second Friday of each month through May 1975, in the Henry Ford Museum Theater at 8:30 p.m. Tickets for individual lectures are $2 and will be available at the theater box office before each lecture. Season tickets for all seven lectures are $12.

They will be available at the door at the first lecture or may be obtained by writing Henry Ford Museum Antiques Lecture Series, Greenfield Village, Dearborn 48121. Tickets should be made payable to the Henry Ford Museum.

Group plans plays

Theatergoers will have a chance to sample plays of the classic period mixed with the modern when the Detroit Repertory Theatre opens its 1974-75 season Thursday.

Its first offering, which will run through Dec. 29, will combine Euripides' ancient classic "Medea" with Amiri Baraka's (LeRoi Jones) "Dutchman" under the title of "Medea and the Dutchman."

The theatre offers season memberships which cost $30 for an 8-ticket booklet good for all of the plays this season.

The $30 also covers a membership card and bar privilege for the member and his or her guest.

Curtain times for the performances are 8:30 p.m. Thursday through Saturday at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

For further information on the theatre call 868-1347 or write the Detroit Repertory Theatre, 13103 Woodrow Wilson, Detroit 48238.

Student to play in show

An annual favorite of the fall semester at Western Michigan University (WMU), the WMU Band Spectacular, will be held on Friday and this year will include a Belleville resident as one of the performers.

James Schweigert, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Schweigert of 16422 Elwell Rd., Belleville, is a member of the school's marching band and symphonic band and will appear with the members of all the college's bands to play music which the wind ensemble and marching band will take on their Arizona-California tour in the middle of this month.

Tickets are $1 and may be reserved by calling the Miller Auditorium Ticket Office at (616) 383-0933.

Folk duo appears in Ypsi

The rock-folk duo, Seals and Crofts, will be breezing their way into Eastern Michigan University's Bowen Fieldhouse at 8 p.m. on Nov. 22.

Established in 1971 with their best-selling album, "Summer Breeze," the musicians have been pumping out hits consistently ever since. Their second album, "Diamond Girl," went gold in four days, and platinum soon after.

Seals and Crofts' success was again repeated when the controversial "Unborn Child" was released late last year.

Tickets for the concert are priced at $6.50, $5.50 and $4.50 and are available at the McKinny Union on the Ypsilanti campus.

Do you really think God is going to let you get away with that?

If you feel one person is too insignificant to help make the world a better place, then work together with others at your local church or synagogue. Example: in Montana, one congregation was disturbed by the lack of adequate housing for senior citizens in the area. Through its perseverance, a non-profit building with 111 homes is now a reality. There are lots of things you can do, too. The God we worship expects more from us than sympathy and good intentions.

Start treating your brothers and sisters like brothers and sisters.

OUR HOUSE IS YOUR HOUSE

We're more than a local retailer...we're your neighbor. Our kids join yours in school, church and on the playground. We work with you fixing and painting up the neighborhood. And get together for good times at many of the same clubs and community organizations.

And because being a part of your community is a pleasure for us, we hope it will be a pleasant experience for you.

Your new McDonald's is part of a national organization that has sold billions of hamburgers. And, although numbers are important, the quality of the food we serve is what really counts. We use 100 percent beef in our hamburgers, and it's purchased locally, as are most of our other food products and condiments. And all must meet our high quality standards.

We're justifiably proud of our spotless kitchens, and invite tours by Scout, school and club groups to observe first-hand how we turn out a meal in less than a minute. We can also prepare orders of almost any size for parties, picnics or club meetings. And we invite charitable organizations to let us lend a hand. We're glad to be here...and thanks for visiting us. At benefit dance

Group expects 'big crowds'

More than 500 "big band" buffs are expected at the spacious UAW Hall in Romulus on Nov. 16, when the Metro-West Big Band plays a benefit dance for the Garden City Adult Concert Band Association. The UAW

Hall is at 2941 Van Born Rd., just west of Middlebelt Rd. "Last February 600 people were at our dance and not many of them left early," said Jim Falk, business manager of the concert band and lead trumpeter in the Metro-West ensemble. "It was living proof that the sound of the big band can still pack them in."

Tickets, at $17 per couple, now are on sale and can be purchased at Garden City's Civic Center, 6000 Middlebelt Rd., or the Garden City Chamber of Commerce, next to the LaParisian Theater on Ford Rd. They can also be ordered by mail by sending a check to Dan Kalifut, 180 Gilman St., Garden City 48135.

Proceeds from the dance will go toward financing the concert band members which represent nearly a dozen Metro-West communities.

"I think our cost for a great evening of fun and entertainment is more than reasonable," Falk said. "At $17 per couple, where else can you get an excellent catered dinner and four solid hours of great music."

"Our book includes standard charts from some of the great bands like James, Kenton, Dorsey, Ellington, Basie and Shaw among others," Falk added.

For Myasthenia Gravis

Charity sells greeting cards

Many Western Wayne County residents customarily send Christmas greeting cards when the holiday season rolls around, and this year they can help a worthy charity when purchasing their cards.

The Myasthenia Gravis Association is selling an all-faith holiday greeting card to raise funds for expansion of its treatment and research program.

The association, a Torch Drive Agency, has served patients suffering from the disease since 1963. Its many and varied services include a clinic; a diagnostic, treatment and research center; a teaching facility and pill bank.

The Myasthenia Gravis Association is presently serving a number of patients who live in Western Wayne County.

Myasthenia Gravis, suffered by an estimated 50,000 Americans, is a disease in which nerve impulses are not properly transmitted to the muscles.

To obtain a sample of the 1974 Myasthenia Gravis

Holiday Greeting Card and to learn more about the disease, write to the association at 6131 W. Outer Dr., Detroit 48235 or call 342-5939.

Local man gets post in alumni association

A Romulus resident has been named vice-president of the board of directors for the Albion College Alumni Association, to serve a 2-year term.

William R. Smith of 12049 Sharon Rd., Romulus, is a 1967 graduate of the college and currently works as community school director for Romulus. He was elected to the post previously held by James C. Kingsley.

The Albion alumni organization has as its purpose promoting the interest of the college through its 13,000 alumni. Membership in the association consists of persons who obtained one semester or more of scholastic credit at Albion College and left in good standing.

Co-op program offers training

More than 160 students are participating in the co-op program at the Romulus Senior High School during the present school year, according to David Ferdon, trade and industry cooperative training coordinator.

Ferdon, in commenting on the high school's co-op program said, "Co-op is a 'capstone' experience for students with previous vocational training. It is designed for those students who have taken the initiative to choose a vocational goal and are willing to enter an on-the-job training experience to learn more about that vocation."

The students in the co-op program receive released time to work in an approved position, complete with wages and credit toward high school graduation.

Belleville students study yearbooks

Five students from Belleville's South Junior High School attended a recent yearbook seminar at Mercy College sponsored by Justen's American Yearbook Co.

The students who participated in the day-long seminar were Sue Bowles, Terry Traskos, Kim Jones, Doug Wysocki and Chris Liedel.

Representatives of the firm gave a slide show that contained examples of different parts of yearbooks from many schools including last year's South Junior High School yearbook.

Recruits get hike in basic pay rate

An increase of five and one-half per cent in pay rates for military personnel on Oct. 1, has made Army career opportunities more attractive than ever, according to Staff Sgt. George E. Fooks of the United States Army Recruiting Office.

Sgt. Fooks, who is stationed at 3649 Metro Place

Mall, Wayne, said basic pay for the Army recruit has increased from $326.10 to $344.10. He noted that an added feature of the latest raise is that allowance for quarters and subsistence also have been increased.

Further details on Army recruiting can be obtained by calling Sgt. Fooks at 722-3388 or 729-3920.

TAKE NOTE!

The Western Wayne County Medical Assistants Society, which includes members from Wayne, Garden City, West Dearborn and Romulus, recently donated a check for $500 to the Downriver Association for Retarded Citizens.

The money was earned at recent activities, such as a flea market and bake sale.

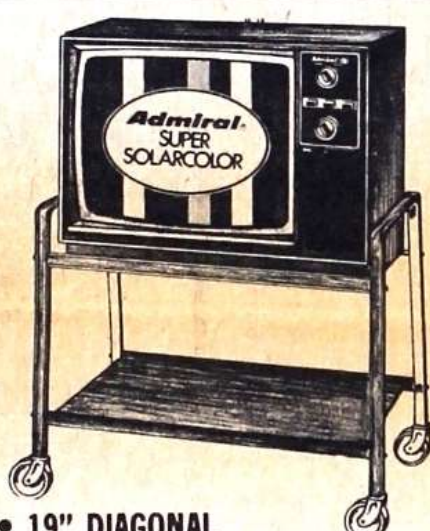

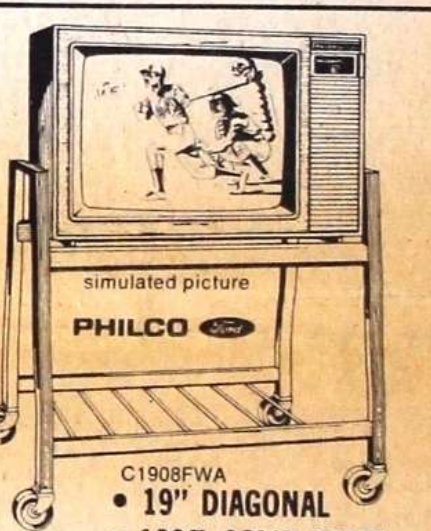

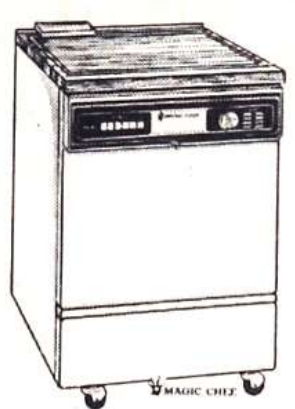

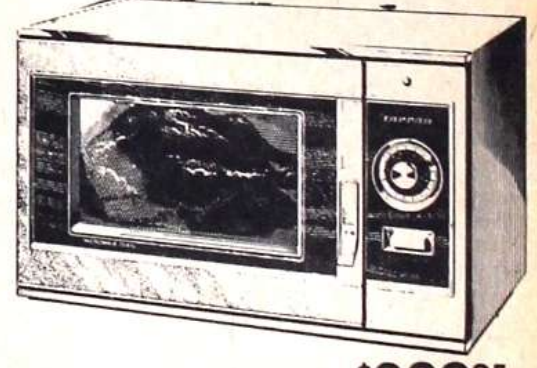

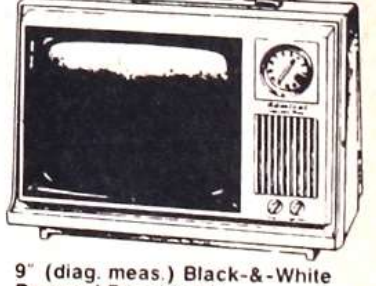

STUDENTS STAR IN TALENT SHOW

The students and teachers of Garden City West High School will have a chance to show off their talents at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 7 in O'Leary Performing Arts Auditorium, 650 Middlebelt Rd., in "Kaleidoscope."

Crabgrass won't win battle if early measures are taken

As autumn progresses, crabgrass sheds its seeds to await winter and sprout all over lawns in Western Wayne County in the spring. Now, not next spring, is the time for the homeowner to gird his loins and do battle with the insidious plant.

A good lawnseed mixture of "cool-weather" species like Kentucky bluegrass, fine fescue, perennial ryegrass or bentgrass will get in a lot of growth still this autumn, to say nothing of expanding intermittently through winter and vigorously again in early spring.

The lawn can be so thick come crabgrass time, when soil warms above 60 degrees, that the crabgrass will stand little chance, even if its carry-over seed is abundant in the soil.

Crabgrass detests shade. It does not invade under trees or grow in the shadow of buildings. Nor will it become a pest in tall-mowed perennial sod of species such as those named. It makes particular sense to bolster scrawny lawns at this time of year with dense, low-growing lawngrasses.

Obviously, then, ecology is on your side. Many months of good growing weather lie ahead for the top turfgrasses while crabgrass destiny is to lie dormant. Lawnseed, well sown now, gives you the upper hand.

Scratch away duff which might impede seed from contacting soil. Seed cannot sprout perched on top of a layer of thatch. Gusto at the end of a rake suffices to scratch thatch out of a small lawn, but powered turf thinners, which can often be rented, are much less laborious.

Scalping the lawn by mowing it especially low makes thinning easier. Whatever the means chosen to set back competing old vegetation, be sure to cut all the way into the soil, making scratches in which the new seed can find a home.

Lawnseed so planted has a much better chance than if simply scattered over thatchy old turf.

From winter sunscald

Saplings require protection

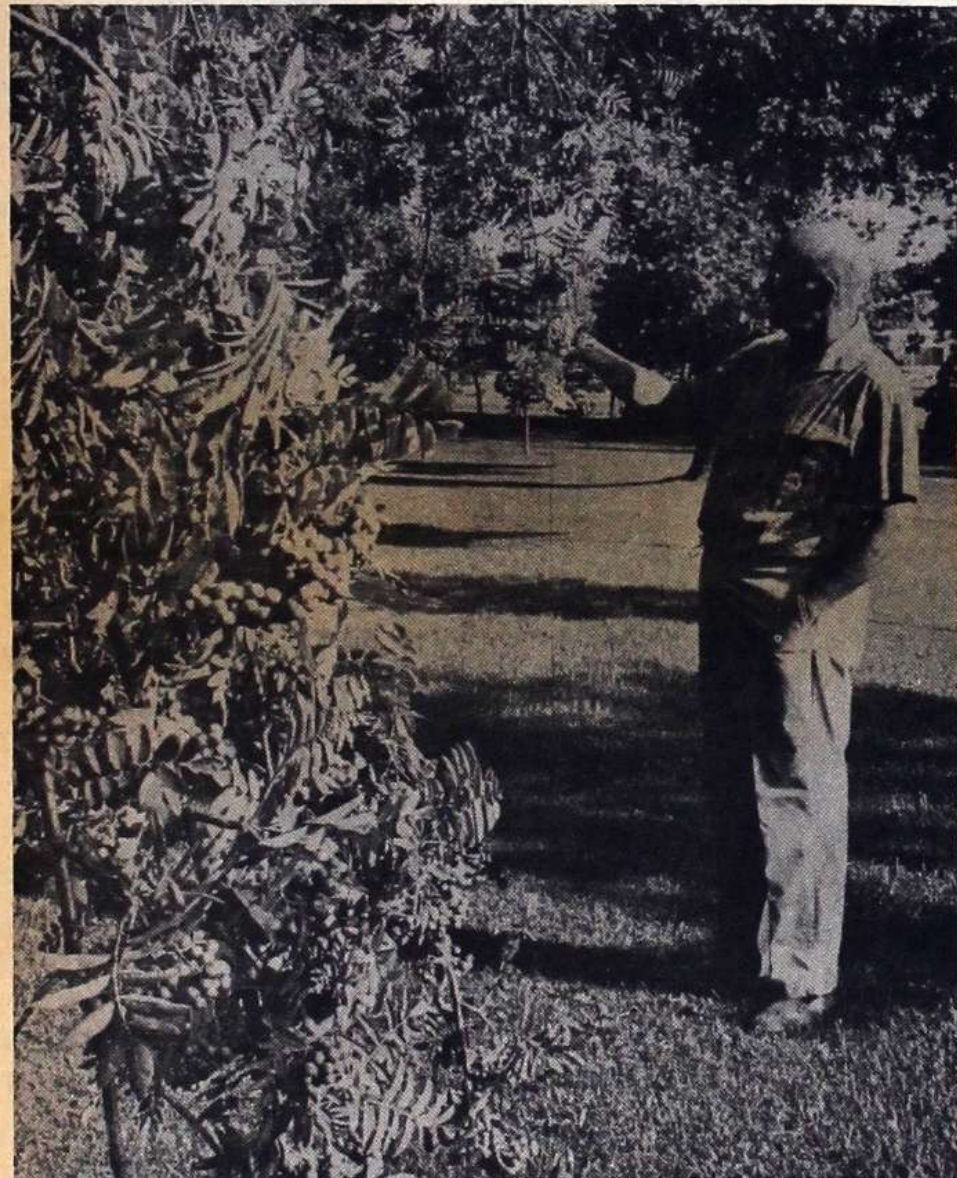

Now is the time to protect young trees from winter sunscald, according to forestry experts.

"Sunscald is a condition caused by abrupt temperature changes in late winter or early spring," said Dr. Melvin Koelling, extension forestry specialist at Michigan State University.

"On bright days in late winter the heat of the sun's rays can cause temperatures to be several degrees higher on the south or southwest side of the trunk than on the north side where the sun's rays don't reach during winter. When this happens, the cells in the food conducting tissue of the inner bark are killed in the heated area of the trunk. Several months later the bark splits open in cankers, revealing tissue killed the previous winter," Koelling explained.

The specialist said young trees with thin bark, such as sugar, Norway and red maples, honey locust, horse chestnut and basswood, are most susceptible.

Once a tree has been damaged by sunscald, it should be treated properly or the amount of injury may increase in subsequent years, causing diminished vigor or death of the tree.

MUCH TO CARE FOR — With property like that owned by Charles Cozadd of Van Buren Township, the coming of winter means a busy period of preparing his many plants, trees and acres of grass from the harsh seasonal change. But Cozadd, shown here picking a clump of berries from a mountain ash tree in his front yard, apparently knows what to do. His beautifully landscaped home was all swampland before he went to work on it. — The Enterprise-Roman photo.

State horticulturists offer fall chore tips

Horticulturists in Michigan suggest that the following lawn and garden chores are timely now:

- After the ground freezes, cover and protect roses, perennials, bulbs and strawberry plants with a thick layer of mulch.
- Finish cleaning out dead or diseased plants in the garden.
- CLEAN UP windowboxes and outdoor planters. Fill them with evergreen prunings.
- Fertilize houseplants once a month.
- Continue to improve soil by adding organic matter. Where annuals or vegetables grew, add lime, a complete fertilizer and organic matter. Spade or plow and leave in a rough condition over winter.
- Rake leaves as they accumulate and add them to your compost pile.
- STAKE AND TIE newly planted trees and other plants that may whip in the wind.
- Remove bagworms from shrubs and evergreens and destroy them
- Remove dead, broken or diseased branches from trees and shrubs.

Indoor herbs brighten meals

Make meals a little more interesting this winter with herbs from your own indoor herb garden.

Most herbs don't need any special treatment and care for them should be like any other houseplant, keeping in mind that plants like chives, that are cut often, need more frequent fertilization.

The easiest herbs for beginning herb gardeners are basil, chives, parsley, sweet marjoram and rosemary, according to the specialists.

Mint, chives and rosemary are perennial plants — they continue to grow year after year. The others are annuals — they complete their life cycle in one growing season and must be planted again each year.

When you harvest your indoor garden depends on the herbs you've chosen. You can snip leaves from parsley and chives as soon as the plants have grown a good number. Rosemary is harvested at full bloom; basil, sweet marjoram and mint are best harvested before they bloom.

To dry these herbs for later use, tie them loosely in bunches and hang them in a ventilated, dust-free room. Or spread them loosely in a frame of clean hardware cloth, screening or cheesecloth. You can also dry the leaves on flat trays.
